Jerusalem's Earthquake. Man's a Poor Fish. Elizabeth and Essex. Brains—Man's and Ape's.

——By Arthur Brisbane——

(Copyright, 1927, by Star Co.)

ONE THOUSAND are dead in Palestine, small Arab villages near Jerusalem are destroyed in the most severe earthquake in the Holy Land since 1837, when 4,000 were killed. Every house in Jerusalem is said to be damaged; 400 bodies have been taken from ruins.

Man can outrun a horse in time. An Irishman, afterward elected mayor of Long Island City, ran more than 600 miles in six days. But, in water, man is literally "a poor fish," a most inferior fish.

Edward Keating finished first yesterday morning over a 24-mile fresh water course in 18 hours, 47 minutes. In that time a shark could swim half way across the Atlantic.

Today long ago Queen Elizabeth gave a ring, her face engraved upon a stone set in it, to her lover, the Earl of Essex. No matter what he did, he would be forgiven if he returned that ring.

Accused of saying that Queen Elizabeth's mind was as crooked as her body, which was probably true, she was a great queen and a hard woman, he failed to return the ring and his head was chopped off.

The Countess of Nottingham, dying, confessed that she failed to deliver it to the queen, the ring that Essex gave her.

Elizabeth was in despair, spent her time sitting on the floor weeping, and died at the end of twenty days. That's the story.

Now the ring is sold at auction for $2,700. It has dropped in value. Elizabeth would have given 100,000,000 for it, pounds sterling.

The learned Dr. Tilney, of Columbia University, comparing the brains of men and apes, says the great resemblance proves apes and men are related.

What is more important, he says that evolution, still continuing, will in future ages develop brains as far above that of Cuvier as his was above the brain of the Neanderthal man, born 100,000 years ago, and looking like a gorilla.

Those that hate the thought that they are related to the apes, need not worry. In the library you find striking resemblance between big volumes and little volumes, but they are not "related," only created by the same intelligence, on the same plan.

Dr. Tilney has studied skulls of creatures shaped like men that lived one to fifteen million years ago. Plenty of time for evolution in that past, plenty of time for further evolution in the hundred millions years that this earth will surely last.

Interesting to city editors and good reporters. When fliers to Hawaii left the Pacific coast flying field at Oakland, the Oakland Enquirer covered the story well. They return, and the city editor of the Oakland Enquirer sends

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE ONLY HANDFUL OF MEN HAVING GREAT POWER

By EDWIN J. CLAPP

In today's analysis of the secret records of the Anti-Saloon League, which have been obtained by the Boston Evening American in co-operation with the New York American, the following important facts are established:

1—The Anti-Saloon League has no members. Apart from its 1,000 employes, the Anti-Saloon League is nothing but an executive committee of 19 self-perpetuating members, many of them clergymen and bishops.

2. This handful of men has exercised a political power unexampled in American history through its collection and control of $67,000,000 to date, as shown by the records of the League.

3. The records show how this group of nineteen men in their executive meetings praise themselves as the chosen agency of the Almighty to keep the country dry.

4. The League gets its money (a)

DEATH AND SUFFERING IN N. E. AS HEAT GROWS, RELIEF IS PROMISED

While the weather bureaus in Boston and Washington were promising early relief from the intense heat wave which has caused deaths and untold suffering in New England for the past 36 hours, the mercury was still climbing to new records today.

At noon the official temperature at the weather bureau was 96, two higher than the same time yesterday.

Yesterday's high mark was 95 degrees. Before today is over this record will have been equalled or eclipsed, according to the officials of the weather bureau.

Thunder showers are predicted for late today and slightly cooler is the forecast for tomorrow.

Tortured thousands left Boston in a general exodus today to find some measure of relief from the heat was obtainable at the shores and other resorts.

FLIERS READY FOR HOP TO 'HELL OR HONOLULU'

By THOMAS R. CURRAN, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Oakland, Cal., July 14.—With "heaven, hell or Honolulu" their announced destination, Ernest Smith and Emory Bronte planned to take off 9:30 a.m. (Pacific daylight time) on a non-stop flight to Hawaii today.

Smith will pilot the plane. Bronte will navigate.

Although both fliers are eager to make a record-breaking flight, definite decision to fly back to the mainland from Hawaii will not be made till they reach Honolulu, it was said.

Then they can weigh experiences of the outgoing flight, check the condition of their plane and equip themselves of any prizes posted by Pacific Coast cities for the homeward hop.

"It's going to be heaven, hell or Honolulu for us," Bronte declared, "and I know it'll be Honolulu."

Why hope to be the only fliers to make the two-way flight, Smith replied: "We are confident we and

DRAG CHARLES RIVER FOR MOTHER AND BOY

A Brighton mother, discouraged and despondent, leaping to death in the Charles River with her son clasped in her arms, was the theory on which Metropolitan Park police worked today when they began to drag the river for the two bodies—if they should be there.

It was only a theory, however, but one based on the fact that Mrs. Grace Shepard of Western avenue, Brighton, and her seven-year-old son Alwyn ("Bobbie") Shepard, Jr., were seen near the Charles River Speedway station shortly after midnight.

A cap identified by the father as one he believed his son wore was

ELOPERS SPEED BACK TO HUB; GIRL DEFIANT

Carried over the road in separate automobiles, but just as determined as ever to wed eventually, 16-year-old Eleanor Laham of Brighton and her sweetheart, George Laham of West Roxbury, were brought back to Boston today.

The girl was found in a Winsted, Ct., boarding house by her father and the police through aid given by a taxi driver who reported having driven here there a few hours earlier.

George Laham, the youthful swain chosen by Miss Laham in preference to the man her father wished her to marry, was to be taken to Brighton District Court for arraignment on the charge of abduction. Laham was arrested Tuesday by Waterbury authorities.

In one of the automobiles that sped toward the Hub soon after the girl was found was Abraham Laham, wealthy lace manufacturer of Brighton, his daughter at his side.

In the other car was the young Romeo, and riding with him was his

In his shirt-sleeves, and bristling at his shirt-sleeved opponent, George A. Douglas, counsel for Mrs. Loretta Clifford of Dorchester, in Suffolk Probate Court today, accused District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex County of lying.

Bushnell, counsel for Dr. Joseph Clifford, Dorchester dentist who seeks custody of a daughter, Marjorie, three, from his divorced wife, was conducting cross-examination of Mrs. Clifford when the accusation was shot at him.

The woman's counsel, perspiring in the heat of the courtroom and a blue silk shirt whose sleeves were rolled to the elbow, took umbrage at what he styled the shirt-sleeved Bushnell's "lying in misquoting

DEATH AND PROSTRATIONS IN GROWING HEAT WAVE

To mitigate the suffering in the congested tenement districts the streets were flushed and the fire plug showed baths were turned on thousands of perspiring little bodies by the city firemen.

The torrid wave in Boston, according to the weather forecasters, is due to an area of disturbance off the Florida coast. South and southwest winds are rushing north from this area and today Boston was directly in the path of the winds.

At 8 o'clock today only two cities in the United States, New Orleans and Tampa, Fla., had temperatures higher than Boston. It was 82 in each of these cities at 8 o'clock and 80 in Boston.

HOTTEST IN U. S.

The weather charts show that Boston yesterday was the hottest place in the entire United States.

At least four deaths and scores of prostrations have resulted from the heat wave in New England. The deaths were either directly due to the heat or were the result of the intense electrical storm which swept over New England last night, but which failed utterly to bring relief.

Bernard Regan, 27, of No. 37 Washington street, Charlestown, presented one of the most baffling cases in connection with the heat prostrations. Regan suffered from a sunstroke while at work on Coleman's Ledge, Highland avenue, Malden. When he was taken to the Malden hospital his temperature was 104½ degrees. According to all laws of medicine he should have been dead. He was given an ice-water bath, however, and later was reported as resting comfortably.

TWO PROSTRATIONS.

Karmella DeAngelo, 22, of No. 209 Endicott street, North End, fell over on Washington street, a victim o fthe heat. So, too, did Emeline Harriott, 27, of Egypt, Mass., who collapsed at Tremont and Winter streets. Both were taken to the Haymarket Relief Station.

While the weather forecasters promise relief late today, and while Boston continues to suffer, the weather authorities point out that the present temperatures are not unreasonable.

On July 4, 1911, an official temperature of 104 degrees was reported in Boston. On July 22 of last year the mercury reached 103 degrees.

The exodus from the city started shortly after day-break. The Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad did a record business in hauling thousands to Revere Beach. The boats plying between Boston and Nantasket were crowded to their capacity. Every inch of available parking space along the beach at Wollaston was occupied by automobiles long before noon.

Dealers in bathing suits reported an unprecedented business, while harried ice men in all parts of the city worked frantically to keep abreast of the orders that poured in on them.

HIGH HUMIDITY.

In many Boston business houses and offices the help was permitted to quit work at noon, and seek what coolness the shades afforded.

The Frog Pond on Boston Common was thronged with children from the tenements from shortly after daylight. The youngsters, in nondescript bathing suites, laved in the waters of the pond to their hearts' content, a special force of policemen being on hand to guard against accidents.

Despite the general suffering from the heat, local and national weather forecasters declare that the temperature is normal for this time of the year, and that the great suffering is due to the suddenness with which the heat wave descended on the country.

The heat wave had already taken a toll of four lives in New England, while scores of prostrations are reported from every section. The four who lost their lives were either directly victims of the heat or were victims of the thunder showers which swept over the country last evening, but which failed to bring relief in its wake.

FOUR ARE DEAD.

Mrs. Muriel E. Gillespie was instantly killed when she was struck by lightning at her home on Aberdeen street, Saugus.

Lightning killed Harry Martineau on his farm in Suffield, Connecticut.

Joseph Urgeal, of No. 23 Winter street, Worcester, fell dead on the street near his home, victim of the heat.

William F. Gilbride was found dead in his home at No. 97 Spring street, Brockton, physicians declaring that the heat caused his death.

Others who are suffering from the storm are:

PASQUALE CARZELLA, of No. 50 Aberdeen avenue, Cliftondale; burnt by lightning.

JEREMIAH McCARTHY, Springfield; shocked by lightning.

RALPH WARNER Springfield; shocked by lightning.

RALPH MOORE, Springfield; shocked by lightning.

OTIS WILLARD, Springfield; shocked by lightning.

MRS. GEORGE ALLEN, of No. 19 Lincoln street, Lynn; shocked by lightning.

Heat prostration victims were:

CHARLES SAWYER, 59, of No. 239 Grove street, Worcester.

WILLIAM STETSON, 59, of No. 11 High street, Worcester.

JOSEPHINE McGOVERN, 14, of No. 5 Plain street, Worcester.

EDWARD M. LEVESQUE, Pawtucket, R. I., collapsed in New Bedford.

MICHAEL ROSTERO, 20, of No. 23 Cherry street, South End.

MISS EDITH BELYEA, 33, of No. 18 Carter street, Charlestown.

MISS AGNES REDDINGTON, 35, of No. 605 Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay.

Karmella De Angelo, 22, of No. 109 Endicott street, North End.

Emeline Harriott, 27, of Egypt, Mass.

Bernard Regan, 27, of No. 67 Washington street, Charlestown.

10 Hot Weather Rules for Care of Babies

Hot weather rules for care of babies, issued by Dr. Francis X. Maloney, health commissioner, are as follows:

Give the baby pure, fresh air, day and night.

Do not allow the baby to remain in a close room or in a room in which you are washing or cooking.

Whenever it is fretful, do not always give it food unless it is regular feeding time. Give it water.

Give it no food but mother's milk, milk from the bottle or special food directed by the family physician.

Do not clothe the baby too heavily.

Bathe the baby in a tub every day. If possible, bathe in the morning and before sleeping time in the evening.

Do not handle it if it cries or is fretful.

Call a physician immediately in case of sickness. The slightest cold may be serious in warm weather.

Babies cribs and carriages should be protected by netting from flies, mosquitoes and other insects.

Never wean a child at the beginning of Summer.

situations," when putting questions to Mrs. Clifford.

But Judge Joseph McCook, cool in his cool and robe after granting permission to the attorneys to peel off their upper garment, averted what might have developed into a war.

The justice calmed the counselors and motioned for the regular proceedings to go on.

Mrs. Clifford, whose mother dropped dead in court two weeks ago after giving bitter testimony against her own daughter, took the stand when the case was resumed today.

NO PEPPER FOR BABY.

District Attorney Bushnell began his cross-examination:

Q—Did you ever put pepper in the baby's mouth? A—No.

Q—Did you ever tell Margaret Clifford you would be glad to get rid of the child? A.—No.

Q—Did you ever tell Margaret Clifford that the doctor told you not to whip the baby any more. A.—I never did.

DIDN'T HATE MOTHER.

Q—You hated your mother, didn't you? A.—I did not.

Q—Well, when your mother was lying in the corridor, after she fell dead, you were within ten feet of the body, laughing and talking with your witnesses weren't you?

Attorney Douglas leaped to his feet with an objection, declaring that Bushnell should use more discretion in his questioning. The question remained unanswered.

Q—Did you ever say of your mother that when you got your final papers "I will see the —— sitting on the bare floor"? A.—No.

Q—Did you authorize your attorney to have a telephone conversation with me?

It was at this point that the shirt-sleeved Douglas leaped to his feet and accused Bushnell of lying in misquoting situations. Then, when this had calmed, the questioning resumed.

Q—Didn't your mother tell you that your association with some man and other men like him, was causing neglect of your child? A.—She never did.

North Troy, Vt., July 14 (A.P.)—Fear that the terrific electrical storms that raged over northern Vermont for more than an hour early today may delay the arrival here of Irving D. Appleby of Roxbury, Mass., mountain trail Marathon follower, was expressed by State Chamber of Commerce officials.

Appleby is endeavoring to better his own record on the hike over the long trail through the Green Mountains, from Massachusetts to the Canadian line.

Last word received from the hiker, a telephone call from a Forester's lodge north of Belvidere mountain yesterday, said the going was better and he expected to be here at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

SACCO FRIENDS PLANNING BIG HUB PARADE

A request for a permit for a monster parade through Boston streets, as a demonstration in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti on Sunday, July 31, was received today by registered mail at the office of the street commissioners.

The application, which was signed by Miss Mary Donovan, Gardner Jackson and Julius Felleani of the Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee, was taken under consideration by the commissioners.

The date of the proposed parade may be on the eve f the transfer of the condemned pair to the death house, for the electrocution, unless it is forestalled, is set for the week beginning August 10, and removal to the death house is due ten days earlier.

END AT COMMON.

The parade is planned to start in the North End and proceed through Hanover, Tremont and Beacon streets to the State House, thence by Beacon, Charles and Boylston streets to the Common.

No mention is made of any meeting planned for the Common, although the parade is planned to end there. The Mayor's office has received no application for a permit to use the Common and, as there is a band concert there every Sunday afternoon, itis doubtful if such a permit would be granted.

It is also doubtful if the parade permit will be granted. The St. Joseph's Italian Society has already requested a permit for a parade in the North End on the same day. The last application for a parade permit by the defense committee was given leave to withdraw.

PROSECUTOR HEARD.

Former District Attorney Frederick J. Katzmann of Norfolk County, prosecutor of Sacco and Vanzetti at their murder trial, today appeared before the Governor's special committee of investigation at the State House.

Katzmann has been one of the objects of threats made by Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers and his house in Hyde Park is guarded nightly by Patrolman George H. McCaffrey, who was formerly ex-District Attorney O'Brien's special guard and police assistant at the Suffolk County Courthouse.

He refused to comment on his interview with the committee but it is believed he was questioned about the handling of the trial by Judge Thayer.

A Vanzetti character witness, Angelo A. Cristofori of Plymouth, was another interviewed today by the investigators who are President Lowell of Harvard, President Stratton of M. I. T., and ex-Judge Robert M. Grant.

MISSING WITH HER BOY

Police are dragging the Charles River for the bodies of Mrs. Grace Shepard of Brighton and her son, Alwyn, 7. She left home at midnight after a quarrel with her husband. A boy's cap on the river bank led police to believe the despondent woman jumped into the river with the boy.

Mrs. Lois B. Rantoul, Boston society woman, was in conference with Governor Fuller about the case. She has made an affidavit, declaring that Judge Thayer made biased statements during the trial, and has also told her story to the investigating committee.

DUNHAM'S TAX BRIBE STORY IS PROBED

Charges by Otis Emerson Dunham president of Page & Shaw, Inc., that an ex-Internal Revenue Department official attempted to extort a $20,000 bribe from him for tax assessment reduction were probed today by the Federal Grand Jury.

President Dunham, his company treasurer, David Black, and a third but unidentified man were at the Federal Building, under subpoena, as witnesses when the Grand Jury began its sitting.

To take personal charge of the investigation, United States Attorney Frederick H. Tarr clipped short his vacation at Rockport and came back to the Hub.

When he went before the Grand Jury, he was accompanied by Asst. U. S. Atty. Marcus Morton.

It was Assistant Morton who, on Tuesday, attempted unsuccessfully before Judge Lowell to have removed an injunction obtained by Dunham and restraining Internal Revenue Collector Thomas White from seizing all Dunham's property to satisfy the $440,000 tax assessments.

The candy manufacturer declared in his charges that the former income tax agent and prominent public official in the Hub offered to have the $440,000 assessment materially reduced if Dunham would pay the agent $20,000.

DIME RING AND JOKE ARE BLAMED

Helen Wainwright, swimming star, says she will ask for an annulment of her marriage to George Leonard Holland, organist in a theatre at Oklahoma City. She says they were married because the management of a Dallas theatre told an audience she was a bride when they saw a dime wedding ring, which she wore as a joke.

David H. Walton of Brookline, head of the one-arm lunchroom chain bearing his name, left an estate of $1,485,000, of which $1,325,000 was personal property and $160,000 real estate, according to administration papers granted in Norfolk Probate Court today to his widow, Mary A. Walton, and William A. Collett of Newton, each of whom filed a bond of $350,000. Walton died intestate on May 21, leaving, besides his widow, three daughters and two sons.

Another big Brookline estate for which administration papers were granted was that of Arthur C. Thomson, who died intestate on May 22, leaving $200,000 in personal property and $15,000 in real estate. The court appointed the New England Trust Company and Orrin G. Wood of Brookline as administrators. The property will be shared by the widow, two daughters and a son.

An estate of $250,000 in personal property was left by Simeon C. Keith of Brookline, and under his will one-half is given to his widow and the other half to the children. The widow filed a bond of $500,000 as executrix.

found on the river bank by a policeman.

Shepard visited the police station today and told the police his wife had left home at midnight after a quarrel and had taken "Bobby" with her.

According to Shepard she has been despondent over money shortage since he was incapacitated three months by the fall of a concrete boom on his head while working as a rigger in Poughkeepsie.

Since the accident, Shepard has been unable to work, he said.

When the boy went out of the house with his mother, the father declared, he wore a cap identical with that found on the riverbank and turned in at the station by Patrolman Thomas L. Hyde. The police subsequently learned that mother and son had been seen near the river.

GIRL BACKS HER CHECK WITH A GUN, JAILED

Saginaw, Mich., July 14 (A.P.).—Blonde, bobbed haired and defiant, a 19-year-old girl is being held here today following her unsuccessful attempt to get $5,000 from the paying teller at the Peoples' Savings Bank.

Coolly pointing a decrepit revolver into the face of E. E. Speckhardt, teller, the girl shoved a $5,000 check signed "make it snappy" through the window and airily commanded the teller to "give me $5,000, and make it snappy."

Speckhardt dropped to his knees behind the counter and pressed the complicated burglar alarm system. Within a few seconds a policeman, several hundred pedestrians flocking, rushed into the bank and disarmed the girl. She fell into the patrolman's arms, and took refuge in tears.

The young woman gave her name as Viola Harris, of Flint.

"I needed the money to pay off a mortgage," she told police, "and I thought that would be an easy way to get it."

TAYLOR'S LIFE BEING CHECKED BY SLEUTHS

Amesbury, July 14.—Police of a score of New England cities and towns are attempting today to find whether George Elmer Harrison Taylor, "the man without a friend in the world" charged with the murder of pretty Stella Kale at Salisbury Beach, has a criminal record.

When told that he must himself choose the lawyer to defend him the accused man replied naively that he would take a lawyer recommended by State Detective Griffin, Chief Smith of the Salisbury police and Selectman French of Salisbury, the very men who have been the leaders in the hunt to bring him to justice.

Taylor pleaded not guilty, sat down and in a vibrant tone asked Officer Hughes of the Salisbury police, "How did I do, Jim, pretty well?" A few minutes after the plea, Taylor retained Atty. John P. O'Neil of Amesbury as his counsel.

The selection must be approved by the superior court.

AS ARTIST SEES TAYLOR

This sketch of George E. H. Taylor, tramp barber and witch-hazel addict, was made by John Maguire, Boston Evening American staff artist, as he pleaded not guilty to the charge of slaying Stella Kale. The Lawrence girl was found slain on the sands at Salisbury Beach June 5.

SMITH IS READY FOR HONOLULU HOP TODAY

the plane can make that flight. All we will need is a good sleep in Hawaii and fresh fuel."

Fliers Early Prepare for Dash Across the Pacific

Oakland, Calif., July 14 (A.P.).—Ernest L. Smith and Emory Bronte began preparations at dawn today for their proposed hop to Honolulu, scheduled to start by noon, Coast time.

The projected hop-off is Smith's second effort to fly to Honolulu. He first set himself to race Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger on June 28, when they took off here on their successful flight but was forced back after a take-off some two hours behind the army plane because of a minor defect in the plane.

The refusal of his navigator, Charles Carter, to make a second start that day caused postponement of the project. Since then his backers have reorganized and chosen Bronte as navigator.

Dispatches from Honolulu to the effect that army officials considered it impossible to hop off on a return trip from Wheeler Field, where the fliers intend to make their Honolulu landing, because the 1200 foot runway is too short for a heavily laden plane to get up headway enough to leave the earth, left Smith's plans for an immediate return flight in doubt.

CAN MAKE 120 MILES HOUR.

Anthony Parente, financial backer of the flight, who had concurred in a statement that the return flight would be attempted almost immediately after the Hawaiian landing, later said that phase of the project was "up to" the fliers themselves.

Captain Royle, who also concurred in the statement regarding the trip, was at his home with the fliers, and denied himself to all visitors.

The plane carries 370 gallons of gasoline.

The engine is a Wright Radial, which develops 200 horsepower. In weight tests the engine pulled the monoplane off the runway at about 98 miles an hour. The weight of the plane, fully loaded for the flight, was estimated at 4,732 pounds. The cruising speed is rated at 120 miles an hour.

Mrs. Samuel H. Green, expert dietician, who supervised the provisioning of the plane, estimated that the food supply was sufficient to keep two men alive for ten days.

The provisions include hardtack, canned tomatoes, dried apricots, half-pound tea, raisins, chocolate, prunes, malted milk tablets, and 12 sandwiches.

WILL CARRY A RADIO.

The army promised the fliers to operate its radio beacon which system during the flight was used in an effort to guide Maitland and Hegenberger, for the Smith flight. This entails the use of a wireless set on the plane.

In order to catch the signals which will mark the trackless path across the Pacific, Smith's airplane has been equipped by army fliers with a 600 meter transmitting and a receiving apparatus. By tuning at 1025 meters the fliers will be able to catch the beacon signals, which will be sent from both Hawaii and San Francisco.

The beacon signals proved of material help to lieutenants Maitland ad Hegenberger but their receiving set got out of order, and during a part of the time they were unable to hear them.

French Flier Plans Hop to New York Within Next Week

Paris, July 14 (U.N.S.)—Captain Dieudonne Coste, former holder of the endurance record for airplanes, announced today his intention of making a non-stop flight to New York within the next week or ten days.

Captain Coste's flight is contingent upon receiving the support of the French government, for which he has petitioned.

Coste says he will use the great Croquet biplane he has flown in many of his previous flights. It is equipped with a 600-horsepower Hispano-Suiza motor and a wireless outfit.

"I plan to follow the southern route to the Azores, then to Halifax, and land in New York," Captain Coste declared in describing his proposed flight. "That route is a total distance of 4,100 miles. My plane is capable of 4,470 miles."

Coste will fly with a navigator who has not been named. He plans to rechristen his plane "Nungesser-Coli," in honor of his countrymen who lost their lives in a similar attempt.

rival, Fred Sappie, selected by the girl's father as her husband-to-be. A third occupant of this car was Special Officer Willard of Brighton division, who led the search for the eloping couple.

The girl is obdurate and continues to defy her father and mother, even in the face of their wrath over the elopement. As the party left Waterbury she declared she could never marry Sappie, the man selected by her parents as her mate.

She declared that she loves only young Latham, and that she will marry him or remain spinster. The girl is 18, her sweetheart is 23.

The girl was tearful at times—at [illegible] times she was gay, but at all times she was defiant.

"In the manufacture [illegible] and it is the duty of parents to select the mate for their daughter. There should be no questioning of the parents' choice by the girl, but Eleanor Latham has other views.

"I'll marry the man I love or I won't marry anyone at all," she declared to Special Officer Willard as the party started towards Boston.

When Sappie was selected by the manufacturer and wife as the husband for Eleanor, she told him politely but firmly that she did not love him and there would be no wedding.

Then she decided to heed the importunings of her real sweetheart and elope. The couple soon away in the machine of young Latham.

Everything was in perfect order as the pair started for Connecticut.

The couple were chaperoned by Eleanor's married sister, Mrs. Dorothy Court, but arriving in Connecticut the plans of the young couple were balked by the refusal of the authorities to issue a marriage license.

The age of the prospective bride and the fact that her name was the same as her sweetheart, caused the marriage bureau officials to be wary.

Meantime, the angry father, as soon as he learned of the elopement, appeared in court and secured a warrant for the arrest of young Latham, on the charge of abduction.

The youth was arrested—he appeared before a magistrate in Waterbury and gave bail for his appearance in Brighton court, but he refused to tell the authorities of the whereabouts of his sweetheart.

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Gardens in and About Cohasset Thrown Open to Guests Tomorrow.

TOMORROW'S PILGRIMAGE about Cohasset gardens promises many pleasures to those, of course, who are floriculturists and to those, as well, who are merely garden lovers and adore blooms and greenery for their own sakes. The Cohasset Garden Club, sponsors for the afternoon, have made some splendid arrangements. Those who gather at the Village Green at 3 of the clock and thereafter at half-hour intervals will be transported to Mrs. T. Frederick Stoddard's gardens to inspect a picturesque arrangement of flowers about rocks and ledges that are nature and art at their highest.

GARDENS NEVER BEFORE THUS OPENED WILL BE ON VIEW. Such as the former Thomas Lawson place, now the property of Mrs. William H. Brown; the Mrs. Henry B. Pennell's Italian garden, filled with the marvelous Lady Gay rainbow roses, and the George F. Newton, B. Preston Clark, George Glover, E. Clarence Hovey, Jr., and Charles F. Arthur gardens may be visited. Miss Dorothy Bolles is opening her gardens. A richness of beauty surely, and each a treat.

MRS. HENRY M. BAKER ENTERTAINED A FRIDAY-TO-TUESDAY house party last week-end at her charming country place in Wilton, in the New Hampshire hills. She calls it West Riding. An ancient homestead, in the family since 1720, with an enormous holding of hundreds of acres, the place is one of those estates so typical of New England and rich in atmosphere and tradition. Mrs. Baker motored with her house guests, of which Leighton Rollins was one, over to Marlarden for the "Jitney Players" show on Saturday after Mrs. John Alexander's dinner at Peterborough.

MRS. GEORGE SCOTT WINSLOW IS ANOTHER SMART MATRON spending the Summer at an ancestral home in the country. She and Miss Anna Winslow are up at Damariscotta Mills, in Maine, occupying an old house that came to them through family inheritance. I understand that the Leonard Jacobs (Eleanora Winslow) have gone back to South America for a protracted stay. Chile, I believe, is where Mr. Jacobs has large business interests, and where the Jacobs went immediately after the bridal in the Lindsay chapel some three years ago.

THE SUMMERTIME ESTABLISHMENT OF MR. AND MRS. JAMES Freeman Clarke (Aileen Victoria Hughes) is at "Great Hill Farm" on Tamworth Hill, in New Hampshire. Mrs. Clarke, an attractive bride, is a daughter of Lady Hughes and the late Sir Sam Hughes, that remarkable Canadian whose war service won him unceasing honor. The wedding was a brilliant international affair, celebrated at Lindsay, Ontario at the Hughes estate.

MISS GRACE LINDSAY FAIRFAX IS ONE OF THE ATTRACTIVE girls recruited for today's duty (a pleasant one) at St. John's Church Fair. The Fairfax family is at "Thissalwood," the Dressel place just above Mingo Beach. An acquisition to North Shore society, the Fairfaxes. They are cosmopolites of the first order. Mrs. Lindsay Fairfax, Miss Grace and Bradford Fairfax. Last Winter Mrs. Fairfax maintained an apartment at the Vendome, for what time she and her family were not traveling abroad, or at Atlantic City, or at the New York apartment in the St. Regis.

THE DINNER WITH MISS GRACE MONKS AS HOSTESS, AT "Edgewood" was one of those preliminary to the Gauthier-Bauer musicale at Stillington Hall. "Edgewood" is a homey, unpretentious North Shore place nestling in vines and rambler roses and clinging to a hillside. From its casement windows there is an enchanting marine view, typically North Shoreish, woods and rocky shore and a bit of beach.

QUAKE WRECKS PIOUS PICTURE OF EX-KAISER

Jerusalem, Palestine, July 14 (A.P.)—Examination of the wreckage of Government House, badly damaged in Monday's earthquake, revealed that a stone from a partially wrecked tower hurtled through the roof of the chapel, destroying a picture of the former German Emperor in biblical robes.

One of the most seriously damaged buildings in Jerusalem, if not in the entire Holy Land region affected by the quake, is the Hebrew University. Its library and chemical laboratory suffered most.

The damage to the university is estimated at $50,000. A tentative estimate of the losses suffered by public and private buildings in the earthquake area has been set at $1,250,000.

Some narrow escapes from death when the earth trembled have been reported. A train, on which Colonel Symes government secretary, was traveling, was derailed by the shock in the Yermuk valley. It was thrown to the left against an embankment, had it been thrown to the right it would have fallen down a 300-foot precipice.

A prominent Moslem architect, after an examination of the temple area, placed the total damage there at less than $5,000.

Hearst Grandfather of Twins; Girl and Boy

San Francisco, July 14.—William Randolph Hearst, publisher and capitalist, is today the grandfather of twins, as well as being the father of twin sons.

A boy and a girl were born here to Mr. and Mrs. George Hearst, his son and daughter-in-law. George Hearst, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, and the then Miss Blanche Wilbur, whose home was in Idaho, were married four years ago while both were students in the University of California.

14 SACRIFICE SELVES IN FIRE

Berlin, July 14 (I.N.S.)—Fourteen religious fanatics locked themselves in the Orthodox Church in Kustanaj, Siberia, set fire to the building and burned to death, according to dispatches from Omsk, by way of Warsaw.

The fanatics left a manifesto declaring they had sacrificed themselves to save their country from the Bolsheviks.

LIGHTNING WIPES OUT NEWTON, N. H., BUILDINGS

Newton, N. H., July 14.—Practically every building on the farm of Frederick Wheeler here is a blackened ruin today, following a fire which leaped from building to building after the main barn had been struck by lightning.

Haverhill's fire department made a record trip over the road in the attempt to save the farm, but it was impossible as there was no water.

WOMAN VICTIM OF AXE KEPT PRISONER

New York, July 13 (A.P.)—Evidence indicating that Miss Sarah Elizabeth Brownell, one of Brooklyn's two axe-murder victims, had been held prisoner for a time prior to her death was in the hands of police today.

John K. Sheffield, friend and financial advisor of the spinster, told police he had gone to her Prospect street rooming house one day late in June and was met at the door by Ludwig Halverson Lee, who served her as janitor and is now suspected of murdering her and Mrs. Selma Larsen Bennett. Lee, he said, told him Miss Brownell was out of town.

Coming again July 3, Sheffield said, he found the front door open, walked in and tried the cellar door, which he found locked. He said he loitered near it a while. Then, he said, it suddenly opened and Lee, appearing very ill at ease, emerged and explained that Miss Brownell was away on a trip. The witness declared he thought he heard noises behind the re-locked door.

Among Lee's effects police found clippings relating how police obtained confessions from Henry Judd Gray and Mrs. Ruth Snyder to the murder of the woman's husband. Police said they also found essays in Lee's handwriting advocating survival of the fittest philosophies.

A well-dressed woman, whose name was not revealed by police, picked Lee from a lineup of ten men as a man she saw crawl through a fence within 15 feet of the spot where Miss Brownell's head was found in the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Company's yards.

Nordisk Tidende, a Norwegian weekly newspaper, announced receipt of a cable from its Oslo, Norway, office, describing Lee as having been given the best of recommendations by his former landlady and fellow workers prior to his emigration to the United States in 1922.

More proof! Millions using this new work-saving soap

A recent check-up of 239,000 housewives in typical cities showed that ALMOST HALF (112,000) bought Rinso. Amazing proof that millions, from Maine to California, are turning to this new, safe way to wash clothes.

Try it..... for a whiter wash

in washing machine or tub

LAST year we called on 239,000 women in representative American cities.

Practically half the women interviewed bought Rinso! In one city 55%—in another 50%—in still another 51% were Rinso buyers.

And so it goes, in city after city. Rinso has literally swept the country!

This very next washday use Rinso—and see for yourself how this amazing granulated soap soaks out the dirt and stains. How it gets the week's wash whiter, brighter than ever.

Saves scrubbing! No need to ruin your hands and wear clothes thin. No hard work at all—for even the most soiled parts become snowy with little or no rubbing.

With Rinso you don't even need to boil the wash unless you want to—for Rinso whitens without boiling. Sterilizes, too—that's how clean it gets the clothes.

Thick suds in hardest water

Rinso is economical, for it's all you need on washday. No bar soaps, chips, powders or softeners—Rinso alone does all the work. Even in the hardest water it whips at once into creamy, lasting, soapy suds.

The millions who use Rinso know how safe it is. Contains nothing to harm your finest cottons or linens.

Be sure to get Rinso from your grocer in time for next washday! For economy and best results follow the easy directions on the package.

Fine in washers

Rinso results are just as wonderful in washing machines! The makers of 31 leading washers highly recommend Rinso for safety, and for a whiter, brighter wash.

And 32,000 demonstrators of leading washing machines use this famous granulated laundry soap to show their machines at their best. They use nothing but Rinso. Try it!

Guaranteed by the makers of Lux—Lever Bros. Co.

One Boston Woman Said:

"Everyone in town must be using Rinso—so many women are talking about it! Well, it certainly does work wonders. Why, since I've been using it in my washer, I scarcely have to do a thing but rinse and hang out the clothes. Rinso does all the rest. It just gets all the dirt out and makes the clothes so snow-white that I don't even have to boil them! Besides, it never harms the clothes one bit. Rinso is also fine for dishes, floors and woodwork. Gets them bright and clean in a jiffy. That's why you'll always see a big package of it on my kitchen shelf."

BOSTON NEEDS AIR TRAFFIC, ASSERTS PETERS

Andrew J. Peters, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and former Mayor of Boston, is heartily in favor of the drive for a bigger and busier Boston airport.

He points out that if business men show the initiative and vigor of merchants in clipper ship days "trading centers of the world may well see the airplanes of Massachusetts carrying our executives and merchandise by the fastest means of transportation yet.

By ANDREW J. PETERS
President Boston Chamber of Commerce

The great events of the past few months have indicated that the time is at hand for a great development of commercial air transport. Business leaders throughout the country are surveying their business to learn what part the airplane can play in expediting their dealings with other business men.

Andrew J. Peters

One leather firm, for instance in Massachusetts, recently wrote to the Chamber of Commerce to ask for information regarding the establishment of an air line between its town and New York in order that it might have the most speedy means of transportation for its executives and goods. That spirit is indicative of New England's attitude toward aviation today.

The business men of New England have always been noted for their shrewd and farseeing enterprise. The clipper ships of Massachusetts once brought to the merchants of the Commonwealth prosperity and renown.

If the same initiative and vigor are assumed by our business men today, trading centers of the world may well see the airplanes of Massachusetts carrying our executives and our merchandise by the fastest means of transportation yet.

Being a steamship day nearer Europe than other American ports, Boston should become the logical American terminal for incoming and outgoing airplanes in transatlantic flight. It is not necessary to point out the significance of this opportunity. This city and this Commonwealth can ill afford to surrender to any other community the leadership in the express transportation of tomorrow.

NEEDS AIR TRANSPORT.

For connections with the other cities and States of the Union, Boston needs commercial air transport—and it needs it as soon, if not sooner, than any other district. Air routes to New York and cities along the Atlantic seaboard; to cities of western New York, Ohio, and the Middle West, and to points nearer, such as Cape Cod, Portland and other Maine points, the White Mountains and even Canada, should be established.

But Boston cannot take its part in the development of aviation unless it is equipped with an airport sufficient in size to handle the traffic of the air.

Within the next two years there should be a great enlargement of the airport at Jeffries Point.

It is my opinion that work should be undertaken soon to increase the width and length of the runways in order that the volume of traffic can be accommodated and also so that the big air liners can land and take off with the utmost safety.

Whether it is necessary to expand the landing area to its full size immediately or not is a question of expediency. A sufficient area should be reserved without further delay for the accommodation of the air traffic of tomorrow.

Better Roads Necessary to Connect With Airport

I wish that better roads could be had to connect the business center of Boston with the airport at Jeffries Point. With the building of an East Boston bridge it must be remembered that the airport will be hardly more than a stone's throw from the business center of Boston.

The landing field at Jeffries Point is within plain sight from the Chamber offices at No. 80 Federal street. Boston has an unparalleled opportunity to gain a leading place in the nation's airports.

Its position will be assured if our business men voice their interest and support of aviation by a more constant and liberal use of its services, together with joining in the movement to make the Boston Airport a Grade A landing field.

I hope also that the airport will be lighted very soon because at the present time night flying operations can be conducted only at considerable hazard under very crude conditions. Nevertheless, night flying especially during the Winter, is necessary if we are to obtain full advantage from the airplane.

The Chamber's support of commercial aviation is sufficiently well known and long standing so that it is unnecessary for me to say more in regard to it. The present is a plane.

19 MEN FORM SUPER-GOVERNMENT IN THE UNITED STATES

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE HAS NO REAL MEMBERS

by "field days" in churches, addressed by the League's paid spellbinders; (b) solicitors and collectors who work on salary and commission basis; (c) nation-wide circulation of business concerns, organized to contribute because it is "good business."

5. The largest single contributor to the league is John D. Rockefeller, Jr. The most prominent person in lining up corporation contributions is S. S. Kresge, Detroit chain store magnate.

The Anti-Saloon League as proved by its private records is beyond all comparison the most powerful influence in American politics. Rev. Harry M. Chalfant of Pennsylvania, one of the League's principal publicity directors, says that it is "a political machine within a political machine."

Within the United States it conducts far-flung political activities, spending upon this and allied work something more than $2,000,000 a year—more than both the regular national political organizations combined.

The Anti-Saloon League seeks to control the election and action of President, Governors, members of Congress, State legislators, judges, local officials, and through its legal department in Washington it mobilizes all its resources to control the appointment of Federal officials having any connection with prohibition enforcement.

This requires constant pressure upon the President, the Attorney-General of the United States, the General of the Treasury and his assistants in charge of prohibition enforcement, the personnel of the prohibition enforcement unit, United States judges, district attorneys and United States marshals.

The private records disclose the astonishing fact that in reality the Anti-Saloon League is nothing more than the nineteen members of the executive committee of the board of directors of the League.

19 Men Dictate Affairs of Phantom Organization

The League itself has no members. This clique of nineteen direct the activities of a phantom organization which has collected and spent $67,000,000, terrified Congressmen and Senators into obeying its slightest wishes and tries to stretch its long arm into the White House and the chambers of the Federal judiciary.

The Anti-Saloon League's power in election over candidates for national and State offices is a matter of common knowledge. Its principal threat has been that it represents the churches and that the great voting strength of the churches is behind it.

Politicians who cringe before it will be surprised to learn that the Anti-Saloon League has no authority to represent the great mass of church-going people of the country. In its most profitable year, according to its private records, the Anti-Saloon League never had more than 300,000 contributors; and its contributors are the only persons it has the right to designate as supporters.

The real facts about the organization of the Anti-Saloon League and the real facts regarding its underground methods have been unknown to the public, because they have remained buried in the secret records of the League.

These records, being disclosed to the public for the first time, by the Boston Evening American, reveal how these nineteen men have made themselves a veritable super-government in the United States.

The Anti-Saloon League was founded by Howard H. Russell in Ohio in 1893. Its object was to wage war upon the liquor traffic. It early forced its way into the churches to solicit funds for carrying on its work.

THEY GIVE TO LEAGUE

FATHER AND SON

Secret records of the Anti-Saloon League reveal that John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., contributed to the League's fund. The younger Rockefeller is the largest single contributor, records show.

League in Reality Just a Minority Committee

As time passed, it created a great organization of extraordinary efficiency for raising money, principally from two sources, churches and great captains of industry.

It early enlisted the financial support of John D. Rockefeller of the Standard Oil, and has used his name to give it prestige to enlist the financial support of other great industrial leaders.

In spite of the fact that its records show an expenditure of approximately $67,000,000 to date in the prohibition cause, the Anti-Saloon League has never rendered any detailed accounting to the public for this money. The League is dominated by the executive committee, which handles all these millions.

The executive committee is a self-perpetuating body. Under the constitution of the League, the executive committee is presumed to be appointed by a national board of directors representing each State League.

The active men of the national board of directors are the State superintendents, who are appointed by the general superintendent of the national League.

The general superintendent of the national League is appointed by the executive committee and is subject to its orders.

The State superintendents are subject to approval by the executive committee and this committee fixes their salaries.

All the State superintendents are under the direction of the national superintendent, who, in turn, is under the direction of the executive committee.

It is apparent, therefore, that the national executive committee is the League, and that it is practically a self-perpetuating body, because it controls the appointment of the State superintendents who nominate the national board of directors which elects the executive committee.

In the secret deliberations of the committee it is shown that this handful of men consider themselves in the light of apostolic delegates of the Almighty to dry up the United States.

On November 5, 1925, at the Sherman Hotel in Chicago, the executive committee adopted a resolution "canonizing" Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, who founded the Anti-Saloon League in 1893 and is still active on its executive committee. The resolution describes the various steps by which the Almighty prepared Dr. Russell for this particular task. It reads:

"Official recognition of Howard Hyde Russell as founder of the Anti-Saloon League.

"Every leader of a religious or moral movement has been a man prepared by Almighty God for that one task.

"This leader in the divine plan to unite the churches of America in the Anti-Saloon League for the destruction of the beverage liquor traffic was Howard Hyde Russell. To him, under God, is traceable the conception and execution of that plan.

"Every step in his career has evidenced divine guidance in preparation for this apostolic task.

"He was intellectually equipped for his mission by early training in the home of his father, Joseph A. Russell, minister and educator; Oberlin was his college and seminary.

"He was spiritually equipped through the prayers of a mother, Sarah Parker Russell, who consecrated him to Christian service before his birth.

"He was safeguarded for his work by the admonitions of both parents that where there is drink, there is danger.

"He was trained for the legal and political problems involved, in the office of his father-in-law, Francis Marion Davis, a leader in the bar and politics of Iowa.

"He was practically prepared through seven years each of successful law practice and effective gospel ministry.

Russell's Work as Founder Is Laid to Divine Purpose

"He was made conscious of the call to special service by the revelation of drink's ravages, witnessed as a lawyer and a pastor.

"His surrender and consecration to the divine purpose were aided by a devoted Christian wife, Lillian Davis Russell, who exchanged a life of ease for one of sacrificial service.

"Obedient to his divine vision, he led representatives of the churches in America to the organization of an interdenominational, omnipotent American Anti-Saloon League, at Oberlin, Ohio, May 24, 1893. He was the first State superintendent, 1893 to 1897, and first national superintendent, 1895 to 1903, and has continued as honored national officer.

"Supported and directed by the churches, this League has educated public sentiment against the beverage liquor traffic, crystallized the public conscience in law and now promises fulfillment of the last and most difficult parts of the task: law enforcement and law obedience.

"The consummation of such a mission is one of the greatest moral achievements of a self-governing people.

"The divine purpose which led to this triumph found its fitting human exponent in Howard Hyde Russell, whom we have long individually, and now publicly, united and officially recognized and declare, with gratitude to Almighty God, the founder of the Anti-Saloon League movement."

The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League appoints members to fill its own vacancies. It directs the expenditures of all officers of the League, prepares all budgets, determines how much money each State League shall contribute to the national League. The present members of the committee are:

Chairman, The Rev. Arthur J. Barton of Kansas City, a Baptist preacher, who has been active in Anti-Saloon League work throughout the Southwest for many years.

The Rev. W. M. Ingraham, of Boston, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Massachusetts.

Arthur J. Davis, of New York, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York.

W. F. Cochran, a wealthy citizen of Baltimore, sponsor of William H. Anderson, former superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League.

The Rev. Homer W. Tope, of Philadelphia, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Pennsylvania.

Bishop James Cannon of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church, who makes his office in the Washington headquarters of Wayne B. Wheeler, and who has been active in Anti-Saloon League politics in the South for more than 20 years.

James A. White of Columbus, O., superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League.

S. S. Kresge of Detroit, chain store magnate. Mr. Kresge was also chairman of the business and manufacture committee of the Anti-Saloon League, one of its principal money-raising organizations.

Real Power of Little Group Due to Money Collected

Charles E. Coleman of Chicago.
H. B. Carre, Nashville, Tenn.
L. Breck Musgrove of Alabama, millionaire banker and politician.
The Rev. Claudius Spencer, D. D., of Kansas City, Mo.
The Rev. Stanley B. Roberts, D. D., of Minneapolis, Minn.
Judge Richard H. Hopkins, of Kansas, a member of the Supreme Court of Kansas, former attorney general of Kansas. When he was attorney general of Kansas, one of Judge Hopkins' assistants was carried on the payroll of the Anti-Saloon League, as revealed in a recent investigation.
The Rev. A. Briggs, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of California.
A. J. Scroggin of Lexington, Ill., former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois.
W. J. Milburn, of Austin, Texas.
The Rev. W. B. Farmer, of Indianapolis, Ind.
Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, president of the National Anti-Saloon League.
There are twelve vice-presidents, and other officers usual to such organizations, but the records show that the national officers perform practically no duties, particularly in the fields of politics and finance.

The minutes of the executive committee reveal that its most active members are the superintendents of the several State leagues holding membership on the committee, Dr. Barton, the chairman; Bishop Cannon, S. S. Kresge and L. B. Musgrove.

All meetings of the executive committee are attended by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel and legislative superintendent; F. Scott McBride, general superintendent, and Ernest H. Cherrington, manager of the publishing interests. Dr. Cherrington is also secretary of the executive committee.

The insignificant role of the directors is indicated by the facts that they meet only once in two years. The Anti-Saloon League has no members. It has a full set of officers and continuously employs more than a thousand persons. Its principal headquarters is in Westerville, Ohio.

Big Business Contributions Is Large Source of Income

Of course this group of men in and of themselves would be no more able than nineteen other citizens to produce the stupendous political results which they have achieved. Their power comes, for one thing, from the money they are able to collect.

We shall now see how they get it.

Here are the financial reports of the Anti-Saloon League of America from 1920 to 1925 inclusive, and the financial reports or thirty-seven State leagues. In the 1919 "plan of financial reorganization of the Anti-Saloon League of America for State, national and international work," it was stated that $50,000,000 had been spent up to the end of 1918. Combining the above figures, and making estimates for 1919 and 1926, we get the following total of expenditures:

Up to Jan. 1, 1919	$50,000,000
1919, estimated	2,500,000
1920-25, inclusive	13,065,313.72
1926, estimated	2,000,000
Total	$67,565,313.72

Let us take a look at how they get it. The American Issue Publishing Company of Westerville, Ohio, owned by the League and controlled by trustees named by the League, maintains a subscription department for raising money. The League also employs solicitors and collectors. Nearly every State League also maintains a money-raising department.

The American Issue Publishing Company is a subscription department, supplies a large number of the speakers, advance agents and publicity men, to arrange and hold meetings throughout the United States to raise money.

It employs as speakers members of Congress, including both Senators and Representatives, as well as evangelists and orators of note.

Between 1914 and January 1, 1925, the record shows that this Department held 21,889 money-raising mass meetings in the principal cities and towns of the United States, and took subscriptions aggregating $17,328,969.99.

Members of Congress (Senators and Representatives) are paid "honorariums" by this department. Other speakers are paid regular salaries.

The sums are raised at these mass meetings, often in churches. Representatives of the State or Anti-Saloon League are allowed to address the congregation, thus assembled in what is called a "field day service."

The 1919 record shows that the State Leagues were collecting $1,500,000 a year from the 20,000 churches to which its field day speakers gained access.

The third large source of revenue of the Anti-Saloon League is the contributions of big business. All business corporations in the country are periodically circularized by the Manufacture and Business Committee of the League.

A typical appeal to manufacturers to chip in because it is "good business" for them, is the following letter from Sebastian S. Kresge of Detroit, head of the chain stores bearing his name. The letter, dated Dec. 5, 1923, reads as follows:

"SEBASTIAN S. KRESGE.
"Detroit, Dec. 5, 1923.

"Mr. Chas. L. Knower, St. Louis, Mo.:

"Dear Mr. Knower—This message is sent because of your interest in 'good business.'

"A committee of 45 persons, called the Manufacture and Business Committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America, began eight years ago to help the National Anti-Saloon League win and hold prohibition. A good many have assisted us. League men say our aid has been an essential factor for success. Now we are in the hot fight to uphold flag and law and finish the job. More help is needed. We need you!

"Besides the State organizations, the National Division of the Anti-Saloon League, under separate budget, has 200 employes, who keep the organization everywhere strong and by voice and print do tremendous education service. In its legal, legislative and law enforcement departments it stimulates and backs up enforcement of the law throughout the nation. Additional contributions are urgently required for current expenses and for the special work for 1924 now begun, including the big convention at Washington in January for publicity and public sentiment.

"Even if you assist this work in your own State, it is increasingly and vitally necessary that those who have a business interest, like the members of this committee and you, shall strongly help the national organization also. Knowing from close touch the national efficiency and needs, besides helping in the Michigan League, I have personally given during the past year $10,000 to the National League as a 'good business' investment.

"Your assistance was never more needed than right now. Please give personal and special attention to this and send a check for $1,000, $500, $250, or $100, which will suitably indicate your desire to keep the liquor bloodsucker off decent trade. Read the enclosed copy of Roger Babson's letter to Mr. Russell, the secretary of this committee, and then mail your check, payable to Foster Copeland, treasurer, or to S. S. Kresge, chairman, in the enclosed envelope. Our committee will appreciate your cooperation.

"Yours for the protection of the law. (Signed)
"S. S. KRESGE,
"Chairman, Manufacture and Business Committee."

List of Contributors Shows Prominent Business Chiefs

According to the records, Mr. Kresge resigned as chairman of this committee on November 28, 1924, and was succeeded by George D. Selby, a prominent shoe manufacturer of Portsmouth, Ohio.

We have no record of the result of the Kresge committee's solicitations. We have no record of individual subscribers to the National Anti-Saloon League.

The Reed committee in its public investigation did get a list of those who contributed $500 or more to the various State Anti-Saloon Leagues. Practically all of the larger contributions were from New York. The list of these contributors who gave more than $5,000 each is as follows: for 1917 to 1925 inclusive.

Anti-Saloon League Luck Not So Good in Missouri

Washington, July 14.—The secret records of the Anti-Saloon League, which revealed the discharge of A. H. Post, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri for his activities in seeking to prevent the trial of a brother of a Federal prohibition enforcement officer for conspiracy to violate the Volstead act, also reveal that Missouri did not have any better luck with Post's successor.

This successor was the Rev. W. C. Shupp, relieved of the office of State Anti-Saloon League superintendent in 1923.

Shupp, who had obtained an alcohol withdrawal permit from the Treasury Department at Washington, procured a half interest in a patent medicine concern, in which he placed his son as one of the managers. When these facts were made publicly known, the Rev. Mr. Shupp retired.

IN TOMORROW'S AMERICAN the secret records of the Anti-Saloon League disclose that its vaunted backing by the churches of the country is most illusory.

CHURCHES BACK LEAGUE, SAYS REV. FORGRAVE

Taking issue with the series of articles exposing the underground activities of the Anti-Saloon League published in the Boston Evening American, Rev. William M. Forgrave, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Massachusetts, today offered records of church conferences throughout the country at which the work of the league was commended.

Rev. Forgrave's action was taken in an effort to disprove the allegation in today's article that the Anti-Saloon League has no authority to represent the great mass of church-going people of the country and cannot truthfully claim to have the great voting strength of the churches behind it.

GOVERNED BY CHURCHES.

"Our constitution and by-laws show that the Anti-Saloon League has its very foundation in the churches of the country," said Rev. Forgrave. "The representatives of the board of trustees are elected, nominated or suggested by co-operating church bodies and other co-operating organizations on the nomination of a proper committee of these bodies.

"Persons thus nominated or suggested must be elected. There are no rejections. The Board of Trustees annually elects the executive committee and members-at-large.

"Thus it may be seen that churchgoers actually govern the league. They have the power to name the League's officials even to Wayne B. Wheeler.

"How strongly we are supported by the churches is evidenced by pledges and resolutions offered at various church conferences.

INCLUDED IN BUDGETS.

"At the Massachusetts Congregational Conference of 1927 the Anti-Saloon League was strongly commended to the moral and financial support of the churches with the suggestion that it be included in their benevolence budgets as an indispensable agency of the churches in maintaining prohibition.

"The National Council of Congregational Churches held at Omaha pledged support to the league, as did the Southern Baptist Convention at its annual session this year.

"The League also won the endorsement of the Methodist-Episcopal General Conference at its last assembly in Worcester three years ago. These are some of the church organizations backing us in our fight to suppress the liquor evil."

DRY LEAGUE IS DENOUNCED IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., July 14.—The State Assembly by 53 to 75 adopted a joint resolution introduced by Assemblyman Charles A. Budlong, regular Republican, which denounces the Anti-Saloon League of America, naming its alleged offenses in part as follows:

"By having elected to high office, particularly to Congress, former said members of the league, and then having their publications sent through the mail under government franks.

"By paying to Congressmen under the guise of 'honorariums' salaries and per diem allowances for making speeches.

"By having its paid attorney prepare reports and statements on the results of prohibition and then have it appear as a congressional report through the influence of Congressman."

Guests of Edwards

General Fenelon P. G. Passaga, French war hero, spent the night at Dedham as the guest of Major General Clarence R. Edwards, and as guest of honor at a dinner.

Among the guests were Major General Edward L. Logan, Congressman Louis Frothingham, Captain Bacon, aid of General Passaga, Count and Countess Moltke, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Fearing, Mrs. T. Burgess, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer and Major John W. Hyatt, U. S. A.

Woman's Appeal Gets Her Death Sentence in Russia

Moscow, July 14.—A wife was sentenced to follow her husband to the grave.

Several weeks ago, Commander Klepikov was executed for espionage. His wife was arrested and tried on charges of complicity in his crime, and was sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Mme. Klepikov appealed, and a new trial was ordered. This trial ended today, when Mme. Klepikov was sentenced to death.

WIDOW, AFTER THINKING 5 DAYS, REFUSES TO WED

New Haven, July 14 (A.P.)—Connecticut's new marriage law has ruined a Bristol romance, but is expected to help a shy widower to matrimony.

William Alegro and Mrs. Mary Aubin of Bristol, both over fifty, were to get their license yesterday after waiting five days as prescribed by law. Alegro appeared at the city hall in Bristol but the widow Aubin did not and he sought the help of a police sergeant. Mrs. Aubin told the sergeant she thought she was too old to get married. Having had five days to think it over, she decided not to go through with it.

STILL SITTING ON POLE AFTER TWELVE DAYS

New Bedford, July 14.—Calmly surveying the city from his lofty perch atop the Olympia Theatre Building, "Spider" Crouch, practising flagpole sitter of Boston, broke the flagpole record of "Shipwreck" Kelly at 3 a. m. today.

"Shipwreck," the original of the tribe of flagpole sitters, remained aloft in Newark, N. J., for twelve days and twelve hours.

The crouching "Spider" had aimed solely at "Shipwreck's" record when he shinnied up the white stick above the Olympia, but today "Spider" declared he may have to sit up there to a world record of it takes all Summer.

This is because, since his ascent to the heights, an upstart named "Spider" Haines out in Denver, Colo., has sat himself past the Kelly record also and is still sitting; out in Chicago "High Joe" Powers is blistering in the sun of day and welcoming the lake breezes of night on a pole above the Morrison Hotel, and "Shipwreck" Kelly himself has begun a "comeback" on a Buffalo pole, from where he engaged in court battles, fighting attempts to bring him down.

It is almost a nation-wide sitting marathon—and everything is all "set."

Meanwhile today, little Isabelle Gomes of Middleboro had vanished with her intention of finding a nice lady-size flagpole in New Bedford to sit on for a record.

Isabelle, who is sixteen, walked into a New Bedford newspaper office and issued a challenge to all male sitters, declaring she believed she could outsit any man.

Then she wanted to know if it could be arranged for her to begin work atop the Olympia flagpole when the "Spider" should descend.

THE MacINNES FUND

That Brave Man—Harris B. MacInnes Died For Us—In the Performance of His Duty.

Officer MacInnes was a real man with a clean record. He leaves a family—a wife and child. You know what that means — Don't forget. Don't wait—Do it now—today.

In my announcements, several years ago, I advocated that the State set aside a Fund for the benefit of the dependents of policemen and firemen injured in the discharge of duty. What has been done?

The Boston American Said Editorially:

A Debt WE Owe

Every One of Us!

When Patrolman Harris B. MacInnes followed two suspects into a Charlestown blind alley, last Sunday week, he acted on behalf of every one of us.

"The bullet that killed MacInnes," each of us may very well say to himself, "was fired at ME."

I am giving the MacInnes Fund this publicity because I believe it will help to keep it in the public mind. You know that many a good cause has faded out of the picture because it lacked publicity—The public soon forgets—Don't you forget to contribute your bit to this worthy Fund. You are all acquainted with this sad case. You all know the necessity of financial assistance. Give it in the name of your wife and little ones. Do it today. I am sending my contribution directly to Mrs. MacInnes, 27 Ruskin Road, Hyde Park. Hand your Harris B. MacInnes gift to the officer on the beat, leave it at the nearest station house, or mail it to Police Commissioner Wilson or to Mrs. MacInnes direct.

Sincerely, J. P. COLLINS.

BERTAUD PICKS J. D. HILL FOR ROME FLIGHT PILOT

New York, July 14.—J. D. Hill, air mail flier, selected to accompany Lloyd Bertaud on his round trip flight to Rome, has made but one parachute jump in his life, and that was from the top of a barn.

Eight times he has faced death during his flying career, but every time a fog closed in, which is quite frequent, instead of resorting to a parachute jump, Hill would land and wait for the fog to lift.

"I remember on a hot July day," he said, "I was flying from Cleveland to Chicago and I ran into a fog. I decided to land and wait for it to lift. I looked around for a field and finally found one. I circled around and came down. I thought I had landed in a field, but when I got out of the plane I found that I had landed on a golf course. I was never more surprised in my life. I had never heard of a golf course before, and I never saw one after that. I never used one and I learned to fly."

Leviathan Skipper Is Host to Byrd and Comrades

Aboard the R. S. Leviathan, Fifth Avenue pier, New York, July 14.—Commander Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., and his companions on the epoch-making flight across the Atlantic in the Fokker plane America were the guests of Captain Herbert E. Haines at a luncheon on board the Leviathan this noon. Following the luncheon, which was served in the captain's cabin, the aviators were taken on a tour of the ship and were shown the various departments. Then they were taken to the captain's quarters for a conference, at which Commander Byrd told Captain Haines of the flight.

Following the luncheon, Commander Byrd, Captain Haines and Mrs. Haines posed for photographers. Mrs. Haines sat in the captain's chair, with Commander Byrd on her right and Senator Walsh on his left.

M-G-M NEWS TO MAKE DEBUT

The new M-G-M News, the latest member of the film family to be added to the roster of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, will be released on Monday, July 18, it was announced yesterday by Harry Rapf, general manager of production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Mr. Rapf said that the new publication will be issued weekly and will be the only motion picture publication in the world which will be released on a definite day each week. Heretofore, motion picture publications have been issued at irregular intervals.

The M-G-M News will be the first motion picture publication to be issued by a producing organization. Mr. Rapf says that it will be supplied to exhibitors at a price which will be announced later.

The organization now has the cameramen in the principal cities of the world. Hearst newspapers will blanket the country and are read daily by 20,000,000 persons. The telegraph facilities of two news services, International News Service and United Newspaper Features, together with the cameramen of the Hearst newspapers, will be used by M-G-M News to obtain its news reels.

In addition to the M-G-M News, for the first time in motion picture history, Hearst newspapers will publish a weekly motion picture page. This page will be edited by Welford Beaton, editor of The Hollywood Spectator, and will contain news and pictures of motion picture stars and productions.

WILLYS-KNIGHT SALES JUMP

That the Willys-Knight Great Six line of quality cars has attained an unusually popular position in the those automobiles that sell in the higher price field is indicated in the sales mark that has been established during the first half of the current year. Figures compiled by the Willys-Overland plant show that the sale of the Willys-Knight Great Six to date during the current year is notably increased over the same period of 1926.

"The unusual increase," says Herbert Hosh, general manager for New England distributors, "not only the popularity of the six but an increased demand for the type of motor car built by the Willys-Knight sleeve valve motor

GOODYEAR ADDS NEW PLANT

Construction work on the new unit is being pushed and the factory, when completed will have an output of 1,000 tires and tubes a day.

It will be manned by native Australians under the direction of a small staff of technical and production experts from the Akron, Los Angeles and Toronto factories of the company.

his reporters in a taxicab ma[rine] thirty miles out. Pa[ge] Thence, by radio from the flying machine, the story of [the] return was sent to the paper, before the ship docked. That's good modern reporting.

Bobby Jones, golf wizard from Atlanta, Ga., defending his British open golf champion[ship] made the first round of eighteen holes in 68 strokes, five under par.

The secret in golf is control of head and nerves. In the air flying, or on the grass playing golf, young Americans seem able to do that.

A well meaning petition suggests a law admitting children to all baseball parks for twenty-five cents per child. A better law would supply city baseball parks in which children could play baseball. That is what they need, not the right to sit on a bench paying twenty-five cents to watch somebody else play.

If young and old men of this generation played more and watched less, it would be better for them.

Japan probably will settle at Geneva the question of limiting battleships, cruisers, etc.

Japan, on the surface at least, is on the side of the United States.

But what is Uncle Sam doing at Geneva, quibbling about ships and armaments? He should make up his mind, here in America, what he needs, get it, and in case of necessity, use it. Why consult others?

They didn't consult us when they were building up armies and jealousies that caused the great war.

LYMAN COTTON MILLS MAY QUIT OPERATION

Holyoke, July 14—After 73 years of continuous operation the Lyman Cotton Mills may be closed down and the plant, assets and machinery be sold at auction. The [re]port [is] circulated [here] [to]day [and] [is] [ad]mitted [by] [some] [of] [the] [em]ployees, [but] [no] [one] [in] [au]thority [will] [con]firm [it].

The plant now employs 1,100 persons, and has been operating six days a week. A vigorous fight to keep the mills here is being made by the members.

It also had been proposed to move the mills South, but the heavy expense entailed blocked this proposition.

Story of Love and Intrigue; A Girl Who Kept Her Head and a Tiger Woman

Eddie Wisden, a handsome weakling, believes he is going to marry Lady Meldreth, a rich and socially powerful woman, who is estranged from her husband. He indulges his credit to the limit, becoming deeply enmeshed in debt. Jill, his actress dancer half-sister, encounters all sorts of financial difficulties, but remains true to her ideals. Under dramatic circumstances, Jill meets Lord Meldreth, who greatly admires her principles and her courage. His generosity makes possible her return journey to London from a distant suburb, where her show has been stranded. She harbors new dreams of happiness in the friendship of his Lordship, but these are soon dispelled. Gladys, Jill's best friend, elopes with a Mr. Watson whom she expects to marry at once. After trying her luck, dancing at Pinaud's, Jill finally secures a position in Hope's Antiques Shop; Lord Meldreth is regarded as a cherished patron there, and Jill learns that he frequently visits the place. Eddie does not know that Lady Meldreth has instructed her attorneys to discontinue all procedure in the matter of her divorce from his Lordship.

Jill makes great progress in the antiques shop and at last meets Lord Meldreth there.

CHAPTER XXVI.

WHEN they were seated in the renowned and most expensive restaurant, Meldreth leant and admired Jill.

"Rather a contrast to our first meal together, isn't it?" he said. As he spoke he removed the flower decoration, which half screened her from him, on to the next unoccupied table.

"What are you doing that for?" she asked.

"The letter to see you my dear," he answered.

She made a laughing face.

"You're far too nice to talk like that little Red Riding Hood's wolf," she said. "Perhaps I feel like him, he replied, devouring her with his eyes. "Don't be afraid, Jill. I'm not preparing to make a meal of you. It's food and drink just now to look at you. For the last two months I could envisualize your face. That was tormenting. And I've dreamt of you, too. Tantalizing dreams, because you never stayed long enough."

"Well, I'm real tonight," she answered, feeling herself to a Norwegian sardine and a olive.

"I know, but almost as tantalizing as the dream, because I can't make sure of you. For all I know, you might fade away at any minute."

"Good gracious, do I look like that? I must need dinner badly!" she laughed. "And I was half afraid I was not so slim, because I don't get much exercise at Hope's."

"You are perfect," he answered. "The modern woman's anatomy as revealed at a dinner table reminds me of a skeleton at the feast. Your bones don't show, thank the Lord."

"Do you object?" she asked unable to keep the Parisienne out of her thoughts.

"Well, not a very slender," he answered, "because she is eternally practicing; but there, you're different, she is a law and woman unto herself."

Again a pang of something like terror shot through Jill. She hid it behind an air of light indifference.

"And so you fell in love when you went to France?" she said tantalizingly.

"I fell in love before I went to France," he corrected her. "Shall I tell you who and when?"

"No, don't. I'm stopped him with a gesture. I hate she'll never let you down—or you her." She was thinking of Odette. "Are you staying in London long?" she asked.

"A week perhaps. I came over only to see my wife. She has frequently asked for her freedom, and I want her to take steps to procure it."

"Do I adore you?"

"Why?"

"Because I am going to help King [illegible] and he wanted to talk after the [illegible] I saw Tom was sent for and I saw [illegible] Hermann [illegible] special."

CARE OF DUKES IS most important in the fight game. In this picture Trainer Harry Kelley, at right, is lacing Jack Sharkey's gloves. There's nobody who can train fighters like Kelley can.

A FINE PHYSIQUE IS EVERYTHING as the picture shows. This furnishes an idea of the splendid physical condition of Jack Sharkey.

Mr. Boston Predicts Hot Mat Bout Friday

By Jack Conway

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 14.—Mr. Boston was reading a telegram when I found him leaning against one of those pineapple stands on Broadway today. The veteran was holding his own with the big city despite the heat wave and the hunger of chorus girls.

"It's a wire from George Grimm," said the veteran, "asking for tickets for the Dempsey-Sharkey bout, either. It seems I have been appointed as a committee of one by the Anti-League of Curious Wrestling Fans to find out what I think of the finished wrestling bout between Strangler Lewis and Alexander Garkawienko, which will be staged at the New Boston Arena tomorrow night.

"After having been battling in the New York heat wave, the only thing I am capable of wrestling with is a cake of ice. I'd like to become an Eskimo for a day, anyas.

"Funny thing about life, we're never satisfied. I can remember of squawking about the snow I had to shovel out in Jamaica Plain last Winter. Now it's the heat. Next week it will be fight tickets.

"Which isn't giving the gang back home a little dope about Strangler Lewis and Alexander Garkawienko.

"I met Lewis in New York the other day as he ferried in the direction of Boston. The Strangler had just picked Dempsey to beat Sharkey, which probably will make him all wet about 11 p. m. on July 21.

Mr. Boston

LEWIS has a big reason for picking Dempsey. He is Jack's pal. They play around together at times. The Strangler isn't convinced that Dempsey fought his best fight at Philadelphia which is why he is favoring the old champion to come back.

Incidentally Lewis told me he would conquer Garkawienko and then topple Malcewicz. He is determined to show the world he is the class of the grapplers.

"I have always considered Lewis a wonder athlete. He wrestles 20 times a year and usually wins. He has picked up more than a million iron men in the wrestling game, which isn't bad.

"This Garkawienko person is as big as the strangler and also has ideas of becoming a champion. I'm going to wire George Grimm that it will be a torrid battle. If it is half as hot as New York, the tussle will be on fire. I'm going to bet one of those one piece bathing suits that Lewis wins.

"That's all for today. I must save my voice for those long distance calls from Boston where everybody wants fight tickets."

U. S. AGENT TO PROBE SALES

Activities of Peterson, Agent for Dempsey-Sharkey Tickets, Is Under Investigation

The operations of Alexander Peterson who claims to be the sole agent of Tex Rickard in Boston for the sale of the Sharkey-Dempsey fight tickets and who demands that each purchaser travel in his specially chartered train, is under investigation by the Department of Internal Revenue.

Acting on the reports made after careful investigation by the Boston Evening American, a special field agent was assigned to check up on the activities of Mr. Peterson.

During the past week, readers of Boston Evening American have been told of the efforts of Mr. Peterson to force fight fans to travel on his special train, Mr. Peterson is now demanding a premium on all tickets which he sells.

Although he is not selling any tickets in Boston, Peterson has written the Boston Garden-Arena Corporation, over the signature of Tex Rickard. The following telegram received by the Boston Amerian from Leo Atkin, treasurer of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, shows that Mr. Peterson is carrying on activities against Rickard's wishes.

Boston Evening American, Boston, Mass.

Your wire, reference Peterson, received. We have placed no restrictions or conditions of any kind except cash remittance for all tickets sold to whomever will buy. All tickets to be recalled to New York on Saturday. Peterson is not sole agent in Boston.

(Signed) HENRY ATKIN, Treasurer Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Mr. Peterson has succeeded in getting rid of a few tickets, but he has also succeeded in causing a great deal of dissatisfaction among the fight fans of Boston.

Sharkey Plans to Use Left Against Dempsey

By JACK CONWAY.

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 14.—Jack Sharkey will use a cutting left hand to cut Jack Dempsey down when they clash in their 15-round battle at the Yankee Stadium a week from tonight.

Now that [illegible] himself into fighting trim, Sharkey is making his left hand [illegible]. It was his left hand punches that took all the power out of Jimmy Maloney and left him open for a knockout.

The Sharkey scouts, who have been watching Dempsey over at Saratoga, report that the Manassa Mauler is showing a lot of his old fighting form. It is their belief that Dempsey realizes that he has a fighting chance to come back and that he will be in the best condition of his career when he enters the ring against Sharkey.

Bobby Steps Out F. Wright Performs
Still Golf King

By Nick Flatley

BOBBY JONES GIVES 'EM SOMETHING TO SHOOT AT

BOBBY JONES has only one big golf crown left, but it is quite evident that he wants to hang onto it. It will take a lot of fine shooting over at St. Andrews to let any of the boys catch the young man from Atlanta

Bobby is always a heroic figure in the large tests, and his 68 in that first round of the British open was the most spectacular performance that has come up in international competition since Francis Ouimet won his startling playoff with Vardon and Ray at Brookline in 1913.

Nick Flatley

St. Andrews is the oldest golf course in the world and one of the toughest. Every great player in the universe has tried it out It runs back a century into history. Only once before has any champion controlled his shots to get into the last cup with a 68. George Duncan performed that miracle a few years ago when he was on his game.

Poor George didn't even qualify for this title, although he's far from being old, as golfers go across the pond. He has lost the touch, as was evidenced by his play here in the Ryder Cup matches

Getting back to Mister Jones, however. Bobby, an invader, faced a terrific handicap. He was the champion, and at St. Andrews golf champions are revered as American sport chasers revere heavyweight kings

Practically every spectator—and there were plenty—was following Jones. Big crowds annoy most golfers, but not Robert. He had all the right in the world to be nervous, but his soul has been hardened to all sorts of conditions and competition.

No matter what happens to him today and tomorrow, he has proved to our English friends that the U. S. owns the best golfer that rembles over fairways in the present era.

Which reminds us that Freddie Wright's 68 at Charles River is also something to cheer about. That's a be-man's course and mighty hard to score on. The Wright stunt was all the more remarkable because it was turned in on one of the warmest days that ever greeted a big tournament in these parts.

JACK KEARNS MUST HUM, "I MISS YOU, DEAR OLD PAL," EACH TIME HE READS THE CABLES ABOUT RICKARD'S MILLION DOLLAR GATE NEXT WEEK.

The tighter cuts his eyes and ears,
His lips and chin, also;
And that's not all for afterward
The temper is enough.

LATEST MIRACLE MAN REFUSES TO ENTHUSE

JOSEPH McCARTHY, being called a Miracle Man for steering his Cubs to the top of the National League, is a philosopher.

"What's the sense in getting all steamed up," he wants to know, "with the season only half over. A lot of things can happen between now and September, and the club that gets cheering for itself too soon will drop out of the picture."

Joseph is a placid individual, who refuses to get excited under any kind of pressure Perhaps that's why he can stand on the sidelines and consistently make the proper moves. His judgment isn't influenced by enthusiasm or anger or anything else.

He does get somewhat riled when it is pointed out that his team is not classy; not up to the big league standard, apart from pitching.

"How do they get that way?" he inquires. "The boys are hitting, and you'll notice they field just as well as any other club. Why isn't that big league? I have been lucky enough to get a few young players who were just coming through when I picked them off. Wait a year and they'll be talking of them as stars, instead of misfits."

Then Joseph starts studying averages and box scores. He's one of those old-fashioned baseball men, who stay with the game twenty-four hours each day. That, undoubtedly, is another of the causes of his spectacular success.

New York, July 14—William Muldoon, sitting as a one-man commission at the ringside of the New York Athletic Commission, decreed that trunks worn by boxers in this State must be either red and black and blue, or blue and purple. PORTLAND WILL STAGE DAY FOR DUFFY LEWIS

Portland, Me., July 14—Stanley Lucas, recruit pitcher of the Toronto International League team, has been loaned to the Portland club on option. Tommy Fitzgerald, last year with Portland, has also joined the staff and Duffy Lewis, local manager, is angling for another hurler.

The Lawrence club has agreed to switch its game scheduled for the Massachusetts city to Portland on June 25, when local fans and friends of Lewis will tender him a Duffy Lewis day. Special Kids' day has been inaugurated for next Friday, when children in blocks of 50, with one adult responsible for each block, will be admitted free.

Bouts Last Night

Brooklyn—Pauline Vecedun knocked out Harry Wills (4). Felix Sportello, Spain defeated Walter Hogan Canada (8). Cleveland—Johnny Risko, Cleveland, won from Jack Da Mave Newark (10).

Cincinnati—Joe Dundee, Baltimore welterweight champion, defeated Billy Deeke Germany (10).

Edgerton, Ark.—Billy Peterson Detroit scored a knockout over Robert Muhs, Davenport (1).

Dayton Ky.—Farmer Joe Cooper Terre Haute Ind., shaded Al Cowney Philadelphia (10). Jackie Dugan, Louisville beat Joe Ryder, New York (10). Augie Pisarri Brooklyn beat Tate Lexford Louisville (8). Midget Oscar Newport Ky. won from Jackie Bernardo, Monroe, Ind. (10).

TWO STYLES IN MAT CONTEST

Tomorrow night at the Boston Arena, Ex Ed Lewis and Alex Garkawienke, the Ukranian champion, will settle who is who as far as head locks and giant swings are concerned.

Garka has no fear of a head lock. He has trained with this and in view and don't believe the Strangler can make his famous hold apply on his head.

Big Alex has a large rope which he puts around his head and allows two men to pull and tug as hard as they can, one on each end of the rope.

By this method he believes that his head will be hardened so he won't feel any effects of head locks or any other kind of strain.

Garka, however, believes his own famous giant swing will work if Lewis He has poked men up larger than Lewis and once he gets them under way with the big swing they lose their sense of direction and are easy victims when he drops them for the final fall.

It looks like one of the best matches to be decided in Boston in many a day.

Joe Malcewicz will try to demonstrate that he can beat Charley Donnell of Norwood and any other local mat Charlie will pick on the same mat at the same time.

It looks like a busy evening from the time the first bout is called until the final bell.

Keeley and Gagnon to Box Monday

Matchmaker Lou Penney of the Crescent A C of Lynn has arranged an excellent preliminary card to support the 10-round feature heavyweight match between Ed Keeley of South Boston and Jack Gagnon of New Bedford scheduled for next Monday night at the General Electric Field.

Tommy Daley, the pride of Lynn, will oppose Billy Nelson of Brockton, a favorite also with North Shore fight fans, in the semi-final of eight rounds. Tommy Lannon of Revere, who has a long list of victories to his credit, will clash with K. O. Roberts of Fall River in another eight rounder.

Frankie Fields of Lynn and Kid Phippin of Newton, and Paul Laporde of Lynn and Frankie Moore of Medford, ex-amateur star, will clash in the two six round preliminaries. This is one of the best supporting cards ever arranged by a Lynn club.

Inside Golf

When a wrist-action such as we tried yesterday—bring the clubhead back directly from the ball—takes place at the start of the back swing the exact reverse of that will occur when you start the down swing, so that when you get to the ball your hands and wrists will be lifeless and their natural "springiness" all gone.

In such a down swing you merely swing your arms through the ball. Doing this, you realize unconsciously the clubhead lacks the speed it needs to get in there in time so what happens? You jungs forward with your body in a quick, struggling effort to hit the ball. The wrong wrist action therefore is at the beginning of your trouble.

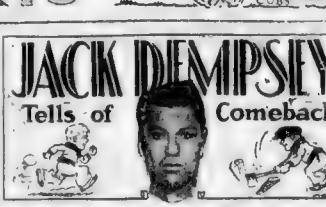
JACK DEMPSEY Tells of Comeback



Dempsey Has His Doubts That Sharkey Will Knock Him Out on July 21.

(Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

I NOTICE that this Jack Sharkey threatens to knock me loose from my scalp in a very few rounds on the night of July 21st! What a brute he must be!

Has he no respect for age and nearly gray whiskers and hollow shells?

I'm really surprised about this Sharkey fellow, for he seems like a nice, mannerly boy, and I never thought that he'd break out with a rush of tough remarks concerning me.

But, I suppose, boys will be boys.

Sharkey's no different than all the others.

Years and years ago, I met folks of his kind, and they threatened to knock me down and out, just like Sharkey is doing today There was Gunboat Smith, with his occipital punch, or something that sounded like that; there was Jess Willard, with his neck-cracking right uppercut; there was Carl Morris with his 250 pounds worth of haymakers, there was Fred Fulton, with his famous left hook; Luis Firpo with his murderous right cross and Georges Carpentier, with his chain lighting right hand.

BUT here I am, beyond the age of 32—but still very much upright.

Sharkey has me curious.

He has said that he's going to knock me goofy. But the secretive youngster hasn't told me what with. I think he should give at least enough respect for old age to let me in on that.

Could it be that he's going to use something on me that he failed to use on Harry Wills, or on Bud Gorman, or on the dozen or two dozen other men of assorted ages who took all he handed out and refused to kiss the canvas? If it isn't something different than he's used before, I'll begin to think he's a most optimistic sort of fellow if he thinks that I'll drop under the impact of something that didn't even make Wills or Gorman or a lot of others do more than bat a nervous eyelash.

NOW if Sharkey had just said that there'll be a knockout in that fight, without mentioning names I might have agreed with him heartily. But when he gets so flip with old age as to say that I'm "it" in this particular game of tag, —well, I'm very much afraid that this youthful confidence and his young mind have guided him into erroneous ideas.

Veteran Kirkaldy Calls Bobby Jones 'Just a Machine'

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 14 (A.P.)—Andrew Kirkaldy, who tied for first place in the British open championship play as far back as 1879, was among the first to congratulate Bobby Jones as he left the eighteenth green, after scoring his record-equalling score of 68.

Wearing Scottish and international colors, he chuckled:

"Mon, ye are nae a gowfer at all Ye are juist a machine."

CUBS SHOW REAL FIRE AT TEPEE

Jack Brillheart, Crack Southpaw, Faces Braves Today

By NICK FLATLEY

BASEBALL has become real war between the Cubs and the Braves. There's all the fire, in the present series at the Wigwam, that is usually found when a couple of teams are fighting desperately to win a pennant or lead the league or something.

LEFTY BRILLHEART will represent Mister Manager on the mound this afternoon. Lefty is the same man from the west who led the league last year.

He was a Washington fan a few years ago, and when Clark Griffith moved his team to Boston Lefty moved with it. He was a sensation from the start of the season and a big favorite with the fans. He is considered to be that on the mound.

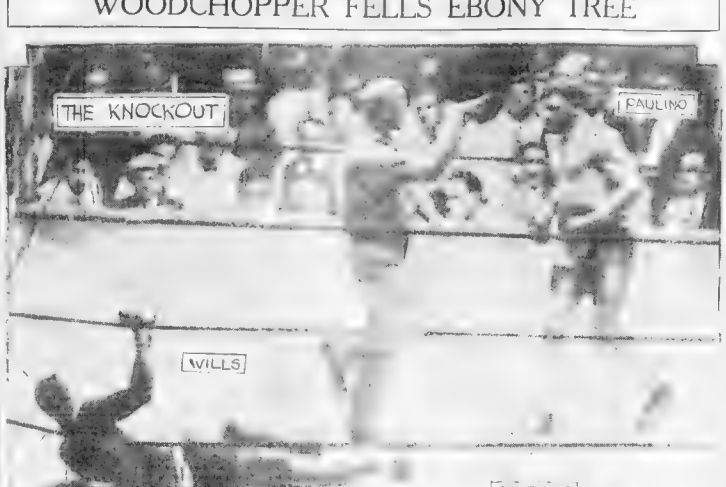
Hugh Mulcahy is due to try to stop the Tribe Thinclads this afternoon in the Giants' park. Several times this year Hugh has pitched good ball for the Braves, only to be defeated by the breaks of the game. Sometimes after the game Judge Gray, when Hugh's name is mentioned, says: "If Fresh can keep it up I'll be the best baseball hero Fresh has had since Jim Tobin took Lee Fox's place."

THE double header did show once more that the Braves weren't up to the New York nine. Kent Greenfield was the only pitcher in the Tribe set-up who showed a great deal of stuff, and he had a couple of stuff, and he had a couple of wobbly leaders back with him.

He is himself sliding into third base on a hook slide, and after that lost his control that is likely to put him on as good pitcher on a hot day.

Jake Parrell is a wale of a job in the game and it is evident that the Braves have finally found a real second baseman. The lanky boy is one of the few that have been among the hits for quite a stretch and he even spices the onion with great fielding.

New heroes in cheer make the game complete once more.



WOODCHOPPER FELLS EBONY TREE

HARRY WILLS COUNTS THE STARS

Paulino Uzcudum, Basque woodchopper, put an end to the long ring career of Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, when he K. O.'d him in the fourth round at Ebbets Field. This was the second time Wills has been knocked out in 17 years. The first knockout Wills suffered was at the hands of Sam Langford, Boston "Tar Baby," in 1916. (I.N.R. photo.)

Gaines Draws Blood From Dempsey's Nose

He missed a lot of his shots this afternoon and seemed to be operating with speed somewhat dulled. Perhaps immersion in the cold water of Lake George on Tuesday was responsible. "I think there's still plenty of zip in the old sock," commented Dempsey after the workout. "And when I've got this—well, I feel that I've got pretty nearly all that I need to have, or will need to have for this Sharkey shindig."

15-Minute Dinner Saves Temper on a Warm Day

By MARTHA LEE

IT is becoming 'Tis happy to say, a very common as well as commonsense habit for home makers to drop their household duties at least one afternoon a week and go somewhere to extract all the joy and stimulation possible from society, the shopping trips, club meetings, movies or whatever form of recreation fancy dictates.

There is no question but that on their return home from the outside world they bring with them refreshed minds and bodies, a new courage and vision to face the problems which more than compensates for the fact that delays in the homeward trip sometimes mean fifteen-minute meals.

It's certainly a temptation to linger and fine just moment on the beach or in the park and it's comforting to know that a working knowledge of quick meals makes it possible for the busy housewife to linger a little longer. Skillful planning will save time and energy and rather than a fifteen-minute meal, the dinner

For instance, take this sample menu for a fifteen-minute meal:

DINNER.

Menu

Thin Sirloin Steaks.
Toasted Rolls. Corn on the Cob.
Tomato Salad
Strawberries with Cream
Sponge Cake Ginger Ale

This is the way it should be prepared and has been time-tested and fifteen-minute period:

Heat the water for the corn in a large pan or kettle and when it comes to the boil, wash and husk the fairest for serving and set the cake. The left-over vegetables and meats may be used for the other dishes, unless they are also wanting left over meat for the next day. Put the meat and heat plate.

Cover corn and keep from warm by the side of the stove. Heat a frying pan and put in a two pound piece of sirloin steak, cut four inches thick and brown them until they are even brown.

When done arrange the corn, with a generous helping on the salad plates and the sliced tomatoes on it. Top with mayonnaise or French dressing, if preferred. Five minutes after the steaks dinner hour for the squares of steak in the butter, turn eg them often.

Make your head save your heels and you'll find that this skillful, concentrated activity will save many minutes.

Of course, you have the pantry shelf to fall back on and no doubt a special little corner on it for your emergency supplies. Canned condensed tomato soup can be almost instantly transformed into the most delicious chilled bouillon by the addition of a cup of ice water. It becomes a company dish served in bouillon cups topped with a dash of whipped cream and a dash of paprika

I suppose it seems almost sacrilegious to talk about canned vegetables in this season of plenty of real fresh carrots but when time simply doesn't permit of the necessary boiling the mixed brands come cheerfully to the rescue. Among the most enjoyable of the surprises on my emergency shelf are my cans of diced carrots.

I doubt if even an epicure could tell them from the fresh. Then I have a favorite brand of peas.

From a can of each of these drain off the water, rinse them richly in a sieve under the cold water faucet and mix them together in a double boiler with a large tablespoon of butter, salt and pepper and a half teaspoon or more of sugar. Cover tightly and heat over boiling water.

Another time saver in the realm of prepared spaghetti. Although I usually has cheese in the sauce, I find that a great improvement is made by first heating the contents in a saucepan, then arranging in layers in a heated casserole, sprinkling between the layers a generous amount of Roma (real Italian) cheese. This with rolls, coffee and a cream salad forms a perfect hurry-up meal.

The undiluted chicken broth with rice which comes in convenient sealed containers is not only a time-saver for the hurry-up meal but is delicious and nourishing as well.

Another favorite is a ready-prepared chicken a la king, which only needs to be heated and poured over crisp patty shells.

Your ever faithful
MARTHA LEE.

HEARTY FARE FOR MIND

By LUCY LOWELL

DEAR LUCY LOWELL:

In an article a short time ago you advised reading to cultivate the mind.

Will you please write something further on this subject. I read constantly, yet cannot see that I gain a great deal from it.

Perhaps I do not read the right subjects, or I may be I do not understand the proper way of going about it. I shall much appreciate your reply.

D. L. M.

It is important. I think, to read only what has been written by thinkers.

I do not mean that such subjects as light fiction haven't a place, but one also wishes to train the mind should no more make a diet of this class of reading than he should think of feeding his body on pastry.

Read a paragraph and then spend a little time considering what the author meant by it and what it means to you. You will be surprised by the number of thoughts it will suggest to you not touched upon by the author.

If you do this consistently you will soon notice that your thoughts are moved to activity, not only by your reading, but by conversations, things people do, whatever goes on around you.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be a groom and I would like to ask the following questions:

(1) Who has the privilege of inviting the relatives of each party?

(2) Has the bride the full privilege of inviting all her friends at the expense of the groom?

(3) Who should defray the expenses of the reception?

(4) If the bride's home is not large enough to accommodate her relatives and friends and the bridegroom's relatives and friends, what is the proper place to hold a reception?

CONSTANT READER.

THE bride and her family make out a list of relatives and friends whom they wish to invite to the wedding, and the groom and his family make out the list of their relatives and friends. The groom gives his list to the bride and her mother and they have the invitations sent to the groom's host also.

(2) I do not know what you mean by "at the expense of the groom." The wedding is given by the parents of the bride or by the bride. The wedding invitation reads "Mr. and Mrs. Jean Smith request the honor of your presence" or, if the wedding is not in church, "the pleasure of your company," and these words mean that they are the hosts of the occasion. And, as in all other social details, the hosts pay for the items of their party. The groom has only a few obligations to pay for—the clergyman's fee, the marriage license, the wedding ring, the bridal bouquet—his financial obligations begin with the wedding journey. It is distinctly bad form for a bride to allow the groom to pay for any of the details of the wedding, except the ones that are assigned to him by tradition and convention.

(3) The bride's parents usually defray the expenses of the reception. And, as in all other social details, the hosts pay for the items of their party. The groom has only a few obligations to pay for—the clergyman's fee, the marriage license, the wedding ring, the bridal bouquet—his financial obligations begin with the wedding journey. It is distinctly bad form for a bride to allow the groom to pay for any of the details of the wedding, except the ones that are assigned to him by tradition and convention.

(4) If the bride's home is not large enough for the number of guests and one's homes are smaller than that are to be invited to the reception, it is customarily held in a hotel. And this is quite usual now

The Bubble of Beauty

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

THE perfect beauty of extreme youth vanishes like a bubble blown from the lips—the rosy lips of Love. The very outermost skin of beauty dies. But if that beauty is made of the least thing more —lovely character, goodness, kindness, a sunny heart, faith loyalty —it only turns into another thing when just the material, outer surface has vanished before your eyes, turns into some other and more substantial loveliness. A bubble DOESN'T, I know, so my likeness ends there. Unless even a bubble has a soul, if we had eyes to see it with.

That beauty that has not gotten gone out the door. Lasts [illegible] walk in the [illegible] of me! And I [illegible] it—or that's much [illegible] So it will live if may not [illegible] with all the fragile, multi-colored [illegible]

So if you are beautiful, little girl, try to be good along with it—so that's much [illegible] So it will live if may not leave a path that is lesser here with all the fragile, multi-colored [illegible]

"SHACKLED SOULS" Story of a Girl Who Asked That Life Should Pay Her in Full

By ELENORE MEHERIN
CHAPTER 33

CLAIRE would be blind. There was no hope. Her sight was gone.

Mark listened to the doctor, hearing sharply each careful word. Breathing down these words as though they were knives.

He protested in a gasp: "You said there was a chance—a remote chance."

"I fear not"

He insisted starkly: "But she sees the glimmer of objects."

"No, Mr. Conrad, she does not. She thinks, at times, that she does. Have you noticed it is always some very familiar object in some very familiar place she fancies she is seeing? She is only visualizing in her memory.

"There was but a thread of hope from the start. Even if there were a chance now, her heart would not endure the strain of another operation. Any further shock to your wife will be fatal. She has been cruelly overtaxed.

"There is no hope for her sight. You must help her to make the best of it."

He nodded. He stood there stupidly and nodded. He must help Claire to make the best of it. For she was blind. She would be blind always.

He went blundering to the door [illegible] thinking in a staggered bewilderment. "Blind—no hope—no thread of hope—"

He got into the elevator. He would have rested on the black cage were plains no to the bowels of the earth. He had a wish to be buried brutally from existence.

It was 2 o'clock of a stormy November day. Roen waited for the hour to awaken.

For ten months she had watched him as he slept.

Now as she stroked the straight golden hair [illegible] already turning black again, the boy stirred. He would open his eyes slowly, a smile spreading over his soft, mobile lips.

He would lie a moment so, smiling at her—a sly, joyous look in his dark, hazel eyes. Then he would pull himself up by the sides of the crib and begin to coquet with her—ducking his head, coming up again suddenly—in an ecstacy if she would make some sharp, guttural sound.

She silent while she [illegible] with him—at most long for the morning—longing to see its soft poked over toe [illegible] of the bed—longing to hear the babble that every day grew more intelligible, she would listen to him practicing sounds—saving over and over a syllable he had mastered. Each morning he went through regular drills.

Whenever she held the baby she had the odd idea that he understood her need. He was so satisfying—so cuddlie—so much more so than Evelyn's baby who had only endured a caress.

The little child was like Jackie had been—winsome, infinitely gay. He sucked his third and fourth fingers. Knowing that Roen would take them from his mouth he would hide the guilty hand with the other or he would pull the sheet half over his face, his eyes tricky with delight.

When she would go right up and pull them from him, saying reproachingly: "I caught you! I see!" he would laugh.

But as the year drew to a close and she read in Mark's letters his anguish and distraction of spirit she felt more and more her own exile, she grew quiet.

Just before Thanksgiving came a letter from Jackie. He wrote:

Roen—wonder if you remember that Geoffrey North and his wife are living in Chicago. You know I liked Geoff. He travels with an interesting crowd, the kind of people you'll find wonderfully stimulating. I wrote him and [illegible] all over. So he'll be looking you up and that will make your stay there pleasanter. Let me know if he calls and when. You don't mention any friends you've made. Are you playing golf? What do you do with yourself?"

She held this letter blankly. The page and the room and the baby playing on the floor swam together in a fog.

Suddenly she was gathering up her clothes—stuffing them in suitcases.

That evening she went to the owner, paid the entire month's rent and the following morning she moved.

She did not write Jackie her new address. She left word with the manager of the apartment house to please forward the mail of her friend Miss Rose Ross, with the rest of Mrs. Robert Jackson to her new address.

She was now in a state of alarm. Whenever she went to [illegible] kevel for emergency as [illegible] most [illegible] of course, he [illegible] very [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

AFTER all, it is the first rose of Summer, not the last, that a man is most likely to grow sentimental about.

• • •

A soft-hearted sinner often makes a better and more comfortable husband than a hard-boiled saint.

• • •

A man always hates to admit, even to himself, that early strawberries and Spring heart-affairs no longer agree with him.

It's the people who purloin the towels, carry off the soap, and leave burning cigarettes on the furniture, who are always complaining about the high prices the hotels charge.

• • •

A man's idea of preserving the unities is to find out what side of an argument his wife is on, and then take the other side just to keep it from sagging.

• • •

It takes two women to make a man utterly miserable—the one he's trying to get rid of, and the one who is trying to get rid of him; the one who is hanging onto his coat-tails, and the one who is leading him a dance.

REMARKABLE HEALING OF SEVERE SKIN TROUBLE RECORDED

Had resisted various treatments for more than a year

San Francisco, Cal., May 12:—"I wish to write to you in regard to a very remarkable healing made by your Resinol Ointment. An acquaintance of mine had a severe case of skin irritation between the toes which caused deep cracks to form. This condition had existed for over a year and every known remedy had been tried without giving relief. Finally I persuaded my friend to use Resinol Ointment and the trouble was healed in two weeks. I hope this will be the means of helping others, as many people seem to be suffering from this condition. I think your soap and ointment just wonderful and you they will always be available for treating skin troubles." —(Signed) Mrs. H.—Name and address on request. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

ACCORDING to social statistics, the average man spends half of his time courting a woman and the other half waiting for her.

ONE fellow says that in the last three years he's worn out nine corners.

HE'D make a date with his girl for 7:30 and she'd show up on Tuesday.

HE finally sold his watch and bought a calendar.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

A little chap climbed on his father's knee and said:

"Daddy, can you still do tricks?"

The father, somewhat surprised, asked: "What do you mean, son, 'do tricks'?"

"Well," the little boy replied, "Mamma said that when you were young you used to drink like a fish."

MARGARET O'CONNOR,
444 Union Park St., Boston.

HE took the bouquet of roses back to the florist and traded them in for century plants.

WHEN she eventually showed up she said it had taken her three hours to get into her new dress. He told her she should have taken twenty minutes more and got into it further.

IT was one of those bungalow gowns. No basement and very little attic.

THIS dame could never be on time. The clocks on her stockings were even slow.

HER finance got tired of waiting for her. He said he wished they were married so that they wouldn't have to go out together.

HE'S afraid to stand on the corner any more for fear the city will make him pay taxes.

HE stood there so long one afternoon that a farmer came up and tied his horse to him.

HIS girl is always so late that he's even afraid to buy tickets for "Able's Irish Rose."

SHE'S the kind of a dame who'd keep the undertaker waiting.

What Do You Say?

(In radio prize contest)

Relative to the reallocation of radio stations, I hesitate to say other than words in favor and feel that the Commission has "done a good job." However this reallocation needs perfecting as the most glaring of the faults crop out, and the one outstanding factor to ultimate success is co-operation between Station and listener-in and Commission and at this time not to burden the Station with other than essentials. Location enters into the ultimate success and ability to pull in desired stations with increased quality reception. The owner must learn his set as he would any other mechanical instrument for thorough knowledge brings results.

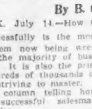
Successful Salesmanship Raised This Man to Top

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, July 14.—How to sell successfully is the most pressing problem now being wrestled with by the majority of business concerns. It is also the principal job hundreds of thousands of salesmen are striving to master.

The recent column telling how one highly successful salesman overcomes the depressing effect of call after call which produces no order, has created a wide spread interest. As then told, "This man has kept a careful record of all the calls he has made over a long period of years. At the end of the year he foots up his income, divides the total amount by the number of calls made, and tells himself that each call has averaged him so much."



B. C. Forbes

AMONG THE MANY letters received is one from C. A. Tupper, president of a large organization having its headquarters in Chicago and branches here and abroad. After quoting the column in full, in a letter addressed to his associates, Mr. Tupper adds these illuminating, helpful observations:

"I think the above constitutes a very valuable article on selling which will apply to any business.

"There is one thing more to be considered, however, and that is the element of 'service'—a much-abused but none the less important term as applied to sales work.

"AS A YOUTH I took up courses in engineering at the University of Wisconsin and worked my way through by selling machine tools and shop supplies on little runs out of Madison.

"My first trip took me to Rockford, where I called on the W. F. & John Barnes Company, manufacturers of drill presses. No sale resulted, but I saw some interesting things which they were doing in the shop, and on my next call in South Beloit, at what afterwards became the plant of Fairbanks, Morse & Company, I told the superintendent there about them. He was very much interested and wanted me some of the things he was doing.

"In calling on the prospective customer I had a talk with him about some of the things I had seen at Rockford and South Beloit, also on through the first trip.

"I sold nothing on the first trip, but what I went second time I was very cordially welcomed and commenced to take orders. My customers began to invite me to their homes for noon 'dinner' and evening 'supper' as the orders came and then to called in those days and to stay all night with them. I believe that after the third trip I never, or hardly ever, put up at a hotel. I took their daughters out on entertainments and in most places was accepted almost as a member of the family, who was ready that I had the women folks plugging for me and getting their husbands and fathers to fold orders for me when they knew purchases were about to be made.

"THE WHOLE POINT of the matter was that I was giving my customers and prospective customers something at they considered of value apart merely the mechanical appliances that I sold, and of course, I was constantly studying to give them the best information that I could about the merits and possibilities of the tools themselves.

"Unless a salesman can talk his line intelligently—nothing else counts for very much, although goodwill and friendship will go a long way in giving him the opportunity to do so.

"Of course, people no longer are in the habit of making household guests of young men calling on them for business when they come and happen to like, but the principle of making one's self valuable to one's business remains the same."

THE NOTION that sentiment no longer plays any part in selling or in other phases of business is totally wrong. You and I always choose, wherever possible to do business with people we like, and to avoid dealings with those we don't like. To get, give

BOSTON BANKER LEADER

TIRES TARIFF AIDS BRITISH INDUSTRY

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

In the midst of the elation felt at American success in cracking if not shattering the British rubber monopoly, note that the gentlemen in charge of trade affairs overseas are by no means asleep. It is announced that, owing largely to the duty recently imposed on tires imported into England, the great Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. has decided to start manufacturing tires in England. It has designated a model plant and 70 acres of land at Wolverhampton, near Birmingham. President F. W. Litchfield of Goodyear just re-elected for a term of three years, is pushing the company's trade campaign vigorously.

Frank A. Seiberling, "Little Napoleon of the Rubber Industry," who "made" Goodyear, the world's largest tire company, is receiving congratulations these days on regaining control of the company, which was wrested from him a number of years ago, at which time his personal fortune of around $15,000,000 was nearly wiped out. Goodyear stock is one of the ten reported holdings largely held in England. Mr. Seiberling started the company on $3,500 of borrowed money, and quickly rose to the heights of many millions. The fight waged by Mr. Seiberling to regain control has been noted in all the financial centers of the world. The war officially ends July 22 when control passes again into the hands of stockholders.

New York Stock Exchange closed sessions for Col. Lindbergh visited that city. The governing committee explained the closing was due to congestion expected in the financial district that would render transportation of cash and paper valuables impossible. Incidentally, the Boston Stock Exchange on the occasion of Col. Lindbergh's visit here has been roofed.

Several weeks ago we warned brokers of good Bay State public utilities not to allow themselves to be scared into selling their stocks. What has happened to the North Boston Lighting Properties common (Tenney issue), was depressed to 144 from around 160 on sales. Today it was 168 bid, none offered.

In these days of plentiful funds, with our government bonds offering yields of as low as 2.15 per cent. to 2.50 per cent., and with the latest issue of Treasury notes bearing an interest rate of 3¾ per cent., and there were several series of the United States government bonds bearing 6 per cent. interest rates looks strange. However, back in 1867, during the period of tight money that followed termination of the Civil War, there were issues of 6 per cent. government bonds, selling at prices ranging from 107 to 113, and there were several series of United States Treasury notes bearing interest rates as high as 7.3 per cent., which were called back in 1867. Among other bonds there were State of Tennessee 6s selling at 67¾ and State of Missouri 6s quoted around 58.

The foregoing comparisons were made possible by recourse to a New York Stock Exchange "official digest," published each June 24, 1867, and which a local banker found among his papers this morning. Incidentally, those days railroad bonds, securities predominated in the stock market as is revealed by a glance at the small list of stocks traded in. At that time, just 60 years ago, there were sales in the following: Western Union at 43, New York Central at 102½, Erie at 60¾, Reading at 107¼, Chicago & North Western common at 35¾, and the preferred at 59¾, Chicago & Rock Island at 91¼, Adams Express at 75, Chicago & Alton common at 113 and the preferred at 113½, and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western at 130.

B. B. & R. KNIGHT, Inc., Centreville Mills. Bevel Mills and Grist Mill will shut down all next week reopening July 25.

GABRIEL SNUBBER HAS BIG GAIN IN INCOME

Reflecting more than fairly widespread prosperity, New York brokerage house says: In connection with Gabriel Snubber income account released today by New York Stock Exchange, it will be observed that first quarter this year showed income of 29 per cent. over first quarter last year. Second quarter income was 43 per cent. over same period last year, and 82 per cent. over the preceding quarter. Indications are that this progressive income will be maintained in third quarter.

Six months earnings of $4.19 per share are more than twice dividend requirements of $1.875 for period and are approximately 29 per cent. in excess of total annual dividend of $3.50. Considering only regular dividend the yield is around 7½ per cent. on current prices for stock, and with prospects for an extra $1.00 later in the year, the yield would be around 9.5 per cent.

As the company's highly modern plants and exceedingly valuable patents would be a desirable addition to any merger of large motor accessories units, there may be talk making, and as the stock was made the subject last week of a bullish circular by a large stock exchange house noted both for its conservatism and its close association with the highest powers in General motors, it is felt that it has not yet discounted all the favorable elements in its outlook.

PADDOCK SEEKS 'TRUDY' FOR NEXT FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Charles Paddock and Gertrude Ederle have met. The meeting has been so successful that the world's champion runner is trying to negotiate a film deal for the world's champion woman swimmer. In other words, Charlie would like to have Gertrude play the heroine in his next picture.

Sol Wurtzel general manager of the Fox Film Company, is agreeable to the idea, provided Charlie can get a story giving both the girl who swam the English Channel and the boy who broke all other sprinters look like amateurs, an equal chance.

Another title for the picture is "Land or Sea." Marion Davies, who was present at the dinner while Charlie outlined the plan, suggested that they get Lindbergh, Byrd or Maitland and call the picture "Land, Sea and Air."

Miss Ederle has a vaudeville engagement in the East, but she is trying to arrange her plans so she can return to fulfill the Fox engagement, providing they find a suitable story.

THE affairs of the nation can now go on. Mal St. Clair has decided what he is going to do. Never have there been so many rumors about a director. At first we heard he was to join United Artists; then he was to go abroad and make a picture; now comes the truth. Mal is under contract to Famous Players-Lasky and will begin in a few weeks on Elinor Glyn's story, "Red Hair," Madame Glyn wrote this story especially for Clara Bow, and it is to be her next starring vehicle. After Mr. St. Clair finishes "Red Hair," he will begin work on "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

THE trained bird that hovers over the studios tells me that John Barrymore is contemplating making "The Tale of Two Cities" in a modernized version. "The Tale of Two Cities" was made some time ago by William Farnum and was one of the best pictures Fox ever turned out.

Personally I cannot see the advisability of Barrymore's doing any Charles Dickens. I am rather surprised at John Barrymore's acquiescence, for there is no better versed in literature and in the fitness of things than John. Perhaps he has ideas not yet disclosed. Mr. Barrymore, my informant whispers has not yet decided whether he will make the "Tale of Two Cities" next or immediately after the Tenderloin film.

THAT same little bird who goes bob, bob, bobbin' around to the various studios tells me that Antonio Moreno may at last realize his ambition to become a director. I am told that the handsome Tony is talking business to Warner Brothers with a view to forming their organization as a director.

Why Tony doesn't wait a few years and direct his own films is a good and become a director later I don't know.

I HAVE heard of a change of story of doing many things, but this is one of the few times that I have ever heard of one in the principal characters being rejected from the screen after the picture is under way because the part did not suit her. That's what happened to the blonde Virginia Lee Corbin.

Little Miss Corbin was playing one of the leading feminine roles in "Tillie's Punctured Romance," "The Drop Kick." In fact, I had an idea that the picture was almost completed, but after she had spent so many times that finally it was decided that Miss Corbin was not the type.

Dick, by the way, is going to New York to direct the film version of "The Patent Leather Kid," at the Astor Theatre, August 15.

Radio Dialog

By C. WILLIAM RADOS.

EVEN in these hot days, radio does not let up. On Franklin street we see a store window selling "radio golf balls." Maybe when they are lost the player can broadcast for them.

Up in North Woodstock, N. H., the local store advertising "radio shoe shine" runs us puzzled. But it shows how smart the twonsmen of North Woodpile are.

* * *

Every once in a while some radio show selects a "radio queen." When we selected ours we made a personal visit.

That is something we would not trust to radio even if it had the photofilm attachment.

Long have "radio logs" been sold. Oscar McSnoosh wanted his money back when he found his log would not burn in the fireplace.

Clocks, compasses, trains, and ships have all been and are being operated by radio. Sailors on doctorless ships are frequently operated through medical advice squirted over the air. Radio coats have long been with us. House boats, automobiles, airplanes, all are equipped. It is even rumored that the Elevated will put in radio in the subways.

One Providence millionaire who had a yacht with radio decided to have a private broadcast plant in his house. As he cruises up and down the bay his attendants in his beautiful mansion operate the radio station for his exclusive benefit.

When we go on our vacation we will not take a radio.

FIND NO REASON FOR SUICIDE

Charlton, July 14.—As the result of the autopsy on the body of Abraham G. Berry, the recluse farmer of Berry's corners on the Worcester road, and which was found with a shotgun at its side, is now believed by the police to have slain himself. A farming tool, which was taken into custody and questioned as a possible suspect in the supposed slaying, has been released to go.

At the time of the finding of the body, its condition and evidences of a struggle in the vicinity, caused the local police to believe that Berry had been murdered. A posse of farmers was organized and with State Detective Edward McCarthy, began a search for the slayer.

In the meantime Medical Examiner Albert J. McCrea conducted the autopsy in which, with a more detailed investigation, led the police to believe that Berry's wounds were self-inflicted, although no reason for the act can be ascertained.

QUIT HUNT FOR MOTHER OF 9

Dudley, July 14 (A.P.).—Further search of the woods and ponds in the vicinity of the home of Mrs. Henry G. Willis, who disappeared July 3, has been abandoned by State Police here. It is believed that the woman is a victim of amnesia and after wandering more than 24 hours bareheaded in the woods pending for some undetermined destination.

The woman has been trailed by a police dog through West Dudley, Quinebaug, Ct., the southerly edge of Charlton, Sandersdale and into Southbridge where the trail was lost.

Members of the family admitted toda ythat several years ago it was necessary to send the woman away for several months for rest because of an alleged nervous breakdown.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE ☆ ☆ BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN ☆ ☆ BOSTON JULY 14, 1927

WHEELERISM Unmasked by Revelations MUST GO

'HOW COME?'—The Anti-Saloon League BOASTS the influence it exercises on the President of the United States.

'WHAT'S THIS?'—The League PUT Haynes in and DEFEATED four attempts of U. S. officials to remove him from office.

'GREAT GUNS!'—The Anti-Saloon League ORDERED Haynes to threaten even the President of the United States.

'?--X--!--X--?'—The Country has had about enough of this kind of dictatorship by the Anti-Saloon League.

IN all these terrific revelations from the secret records of the Anti-Saloon League nothing is more shocking than Wayne B. Wheeler's brazen boast of his influence with judges.

He claims to stand at the elbow of the President when Federal judges are appointed. Read this, from Wheeler's report to the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League on June 4, 1925:

"The President and the Justice Department have manifested a very helpful spirit in recent appointments. Our friends were back of Hon. William Clark, an outstanding prohibition enforcement candidate for Federal Judge in New Jersey. The President finally turned down Senator Edge's choice and appointed Clark. It will mean better enforcement there. The Washington Post, in commenting on the appointment of Judge Clark in its first column, said: 'Senator Edge will be much interested to learn that Judge Clark of New Jersey wins a place on the Federal bench BY AND WITH THE ADVICE AND CONSENT of Wayne B. Wheeler.'"

The President of the United States will be interested in that section of Wheeler's report upon his own activities. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will read with some amazement Wheeler's secret report that Secretary Mellon, charged with the duty of enforcing the prohibition laws, really wants a prohibition commissioner who will deal more liberally with those who want alcohol and whiskey. This is what Dr. Wheeler reported to his superiors on November 25, 1924:

"Secretary Mellon doubtless feels that if Commissioner Haynes were ousted and someone put in his place who would be more pliable, he would deal more liberally with those who want more alcohol and whiskey."

President Coolidge may not feel quite so cordial towards Dr. Wheeler when Dr. Wheeler next calls to exercise his boasted influence in the White House, after the President has read the "indictment" proclamation to the American people which the Anti-Saloon League executive committee came within one vote of publishing on November 8, 1925.

The President will be enlightened to learn that the Anti-Saloon League barely restrained itself from accusing him of "misfeasance or malfeasance" in office, a cause for impeachment.

With what blunt frankness Wheeler, in the fancied privacy of these documents, boasts of his power! On July 14, 1921, he tells of having personally secured the appointment of Roy A. Haynes as first prohibition commissioner. Then he goes on:

"After Mr. Haynes was made Commissioner, a large number of applicants seemed to think that we made the appointment from this office, and made their appeals to us direct. Many of the subordinate appointees take it for granted that they must have the endorsement of this office before they can secure a position."

The little group of nineteen men who represent the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League have arrogated to themselves a power never before exercised by a private group of individuals in this country. The question of Wheelerism is not at all a wet-versus-dry question. It is simply a question whether this Government is going to be administered by the officials elected by the people, or whether it is going to be administered by private cliques like the Anti-Saloon League and the Klan, who step in and tell the people's lawful representative what to do.

His Sunday Suit

The Motorman Seizes His Chance to Wear It

The question put to the 4,000 uniformed men of the Boston Elevated Railway system was:

"Which will you have, one day off in seven, at a sacrifice of $5.16, or seven days a week on the cars, with your pay envelope containing what it does now?"

The men chose the day off and hereafter are to have that day—occasionally a Sunday, maybe—to spend with their families.

One day off in seven for men employed in transportation, "except when they request otherwise," is one of the fundamental principles of the State law. Seven years ago, the neutral arbitrator in an Elevated wage controversy of that time expressed the opinion that "Neither the employing company nor the public is entitled to more than six days consecutive employment as an established proposition." HE hoped some plan might be evolved by which the seven-day week could be wiped out.

The plan agreed upon finally gives the men an increase of 2½ cents an hour and ONE DAY OFF IN SEVEN. Operators of motorbusses and one-man cars are to receive 65 cents an hour, the crews of two-men cars 75 cents an hour.

Reductions and changes in the service these past few years have laid off motormen and conductors by the dozen. These will be called back, to fill the gaps caused by the one-day-off plan.

We congratulate the directing heads of the Elevated system upon a step which brings their organization into step with other big employers. The seven-day week has been a reproach to Boston and New England.

And we congratulate the uniformed men of the system, upon a public demonstration of the fact that they ARE men and not money-grubbers. If any other body of men has voted within the past few years to give up $20,000 a week—even to have it divided among other worthy men of their own craft—we do not recall the incident.

The public, glad to have an issue of this sort settled so amicably and without any consequent passing of the bill to the customer, rejoices with the men. Every patron of the system will be glad to see the men return who have been laid off, will find happiness in the thought the men on subway and surface and elevated lines now have that one-day-off-in-seven which is the common right of working men everywhere in Christendom.

THE RIGHT KIND OF YOUNG STUDENTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

SOME students at Princeton recently volunteered to spend their Summer vacations working on the broken levee of the Mississippi River.

They are willing to do manual labor as well as engineering tasks. President Hibben suggested that they write to Secretary of War Davis and offer to organize a relief corps.

This illustrates several things.

We are accustomed to thinking that the laboring men, that is, the men who work with their hands only, are the backbone of the country. This shows that men who labor with their brains also can do manual labor, if necessary, and are willing to do it, whereas the hand worker could not do mental work if he tried.

The brain worker, therefore, is the most indispensable man. He not only does his own job of brain work, but he can do all the other jobs beneath him. He can sit at the desk and sign papers or he can also run an elevator, sweep the floors and clean spittoons, if he has to. The elevator boy, on the contrary, could not do the other man's desk work.

The incident casts a refreshing light upon the temper of the modern boy, in fact, upon the temper of all youth.

Youth likes to be of use. One thing that lures many boys away into business life before they have finished school is their desire to be useful.

The greatest problem in child training is not to yell "don't!" constantly at your children, but to show them how to put their activities to some good use.

Everybody, in the last analysis, will be found to love to serve.

People are not wholly selfish and every man isn't born wicked, but the beauty of humanity is that it has the spirit of sympathy and helpfulness in it and it does not take much to cause that spark to appear. Much of the sin of youth is simply due to undirected energy. It is the slopping over of superfluous power. When an occasion arises, however, in which this power can be directed into valuable channels, youth is ready with its response.

The young people of today are no worse off than the young people of yesterday, and the standing marvel is how young people who were so bad yesterday can be so good as old people today. On the contrary, the young people are better. They are more serious-minded and are more willing to help than were their predecessors, and the world is steadily improving.

The superfluous thinker can find many instances to disprove this, but more mature reflection and the riper experience helps us to see that this world is steadily swinging forward into the light.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

IN a CAMBRIDGE restaurant we saw a man buy two slices of bread and five pats of butter. He ate all the butter. It is now about time for some challenger to start a butter eating contest.

POSTMASTER ROLAND M. BAKER is an example of the experienced leader who truly balances and judges progress accurately. He is a hearty exponent of commercial aviation. If he could do as he chooses he would be up there chauffering some three propeller plane.

* * *

In a busy HUNTINGTON AVENUE store we discovered some choice oranges. TWELVE DOLLARS a dozen is what the store gets for them. In case the purchaser finds stuffed oranges not exactly what is being desired then some choice teas at $4 a pound might do. If the customer is still uncertain the clerk still has a can of eight cent sardines to fall back upon.

Maybe the people who purchase oranges at $1 each are the ones who can afford the $5000 ormolu dressing table we saw in an ARLINGTON STREET furniture shop.

DOCTOR EDWARD WIGGLESWORTH, director of the Museum of Natural History, has a collection of New England bird and stream life which attracts hundreds of spectators. Although the Doctor's title includes something about "mineralogy and geology" it simply means that he is an expert on New England nature.

* * *

Not so expert on anything relating to art as the statue near the railroad "depot" in TILTON, N. H. Notice the stone figure of the draped woman with the crossed legs and a hand on her hip. Even the Doctor would admit here is a bit of new New England natural history.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE women camp followers of Mexico—have you ever heard of them?

They're a strange institution—that army of women who travel with Mexico's tattered soldiers. Very different from the ladies of easy virtue who hang around our army posts. It is true that they do not follow the conventional code of morals—a woman may live with a man one year or five and then go on to another. Or she may die in battle fighting for her mate. In such matters, love is their only law. But they have much to think of besides love.

The Mexican camp women are really the commissary. Each soldier draws his ration money and this he passes over to his woman. The women go ahead of the army, barefoot, ragged, laughing, singing, squabbling, searching the country with fierce black eyes for sign of food, and when they have filched or bought sufficient for the night's meal they prepare camp for the men.

They make camp and their children play about them. Children? With such women? But to these women, children are their greatest pride. A babe at the breast or perched on the hip, another toddling at heel, a couple more racing in that mass of half naked young rascals—that is the camp woman's dream. To be "immune" — childless — unfruitful—that is the camp woman's blackest shame.

And her man, or men, agree. When a woman passes from man to man her children go with her—welcome gifts. For life, to the Mexican, is a bare and chilly affair without the warmth and laughter of babies.

So where the Mexican camp women go, the children swarm. And if a woman should be unable or unwilling to bear, hers would be a sorry lot. For the scorn and contempt of the fruitful women is merciless to the one who is barren.

Queer that we should be so near to that land in miles—so far from them in spirit.

The other day I attended a luncheon given by a group of young women who have been life-long friends. Thirty-six young women ranging in age from twenty-eight to thirty-three. All of them healthy, happy, intelligent, good to look upon, highly respectable, well-educated, in comfortable circumstances.

All but five were married. None of those married women worked. ONLY FOUR OF THOSE YOUNG WOMEN HAD CHILDREN.

These young women also travel in armies, spending their husbands' money. They go from one bridge party to another, from luncheon to matinee, from matinee to tea, from tea to cabaret or dance. They are not "fast" in any sense. They represent the very flower of our young womanhood. And out of thirty-six only four have children or expect to have children.

Two armies—

One in silk and spangles—

One in rags and bare brown skin—

Which means more to the nation?

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

An author may influence the fortunes of the world to as great an extent as a statesman or a warrior. A book may be as great a thing as a battle.—Disraeli.

Opinion is ultimately determined by the feelings and not by the intellect.—Spencer.

All the passions become extinguished with age, except self-love, which never dies.—Voltaire.

I defy the wisest man in the world to turn a truly good action into ridicule.—Fielding.

The same sun which gilds all nature and exhilarates the whole creation, does not shine upon disappointed ambition.—Burke.

Another symptom, therefore, in all noble peoples is to admire, and perhaps exaggerate, the greatness of the past.—Froude.

Good advice is often annoying; bad advice never is.

—Gondinet.

It seems to me that men do not love what they are compelled to admire.—Diderot.
